THRILLING STORY OF VESSEL'S LOSS

Captain Sealby Tells of the Sinking of His Good Ship.

REMAINED ABOARD
TILL SHE WENT DOWN

Jack Binns, the Wireless
Operator, Made Hero
in New York.

New York, Jan. 26.—Captain Sealby and his officers and most of the crew of the wrecked steamship Republic, were given a remarkable demonstration today when they landed at the pier of the White Star Line from the revenue cutter Manhattan, which transferred them from the revenue cutter Seneca.

A great throng of officers and seamen of the steamships of the White Star Line in dock together with three or four hundred spectators were on the dock when Captain Sealby and his shipwrecked crew stepped down the gangplank.

Officers and seamen alike made a rush for Captain Sealby and lifting him to their shoulders carried him the whole length of the dock to the street while the crowd yelled itself hoarse and stewards on the steamships blew trumpets.

Operator Binns a Hero.
The captain would not talk of the wreck aloft the brave Binns, the wireless telegraph operator. Captain Sealby was carried from the street to the offices of the steamship company on the second floor of the pier.

Few marine stories in recent years of marvellous escapes from the sea equal in dramatic intensity the narrative that Captain Sealby told today of the escape of Second Officer Williams and himself from the Republic.

The captain would not talk of the collision with the steamer Florida.

Captain Sealby said:
"It was about 8 o'clock Sunday night when the Republic was sinking and only myself and Williams were on the bridge. There was a rumbling and cracking at the after end of the boat. The stern was settling very rapidly and the sea was pretty bad."

Ran for Safety.

"Then I said to Williams: 'Well, what do you think about it, Williams?' and Williams answered: 'I don't think it will be a long race. Let us sprint for it.' When you are ready let her go." I looked aft again and saw how fast she was going and I told Williams to burn blue lights. Then I fired my revolver five times to let the boats around me know that we were going off. Turning to Williams I said: 'Let us take to the forward rigging' and we ran from the bridge to the saloon deck, burning our blue lights as we went and carrying an ordinary lantern.

"When we got to the saloon deck the water was coming in a little aft of where we stood. As we ran forward the stern was sinking so rapidly that the incline was so steep that when we got to the fore rigging we started to slip back and could hardly keep on deck. The last I saw of Williams he had crossed the port rail and was hanging over the side. I took to the rigging and went up as high as

GENERAL MANAGER M'KEEN HURT IN WRECK

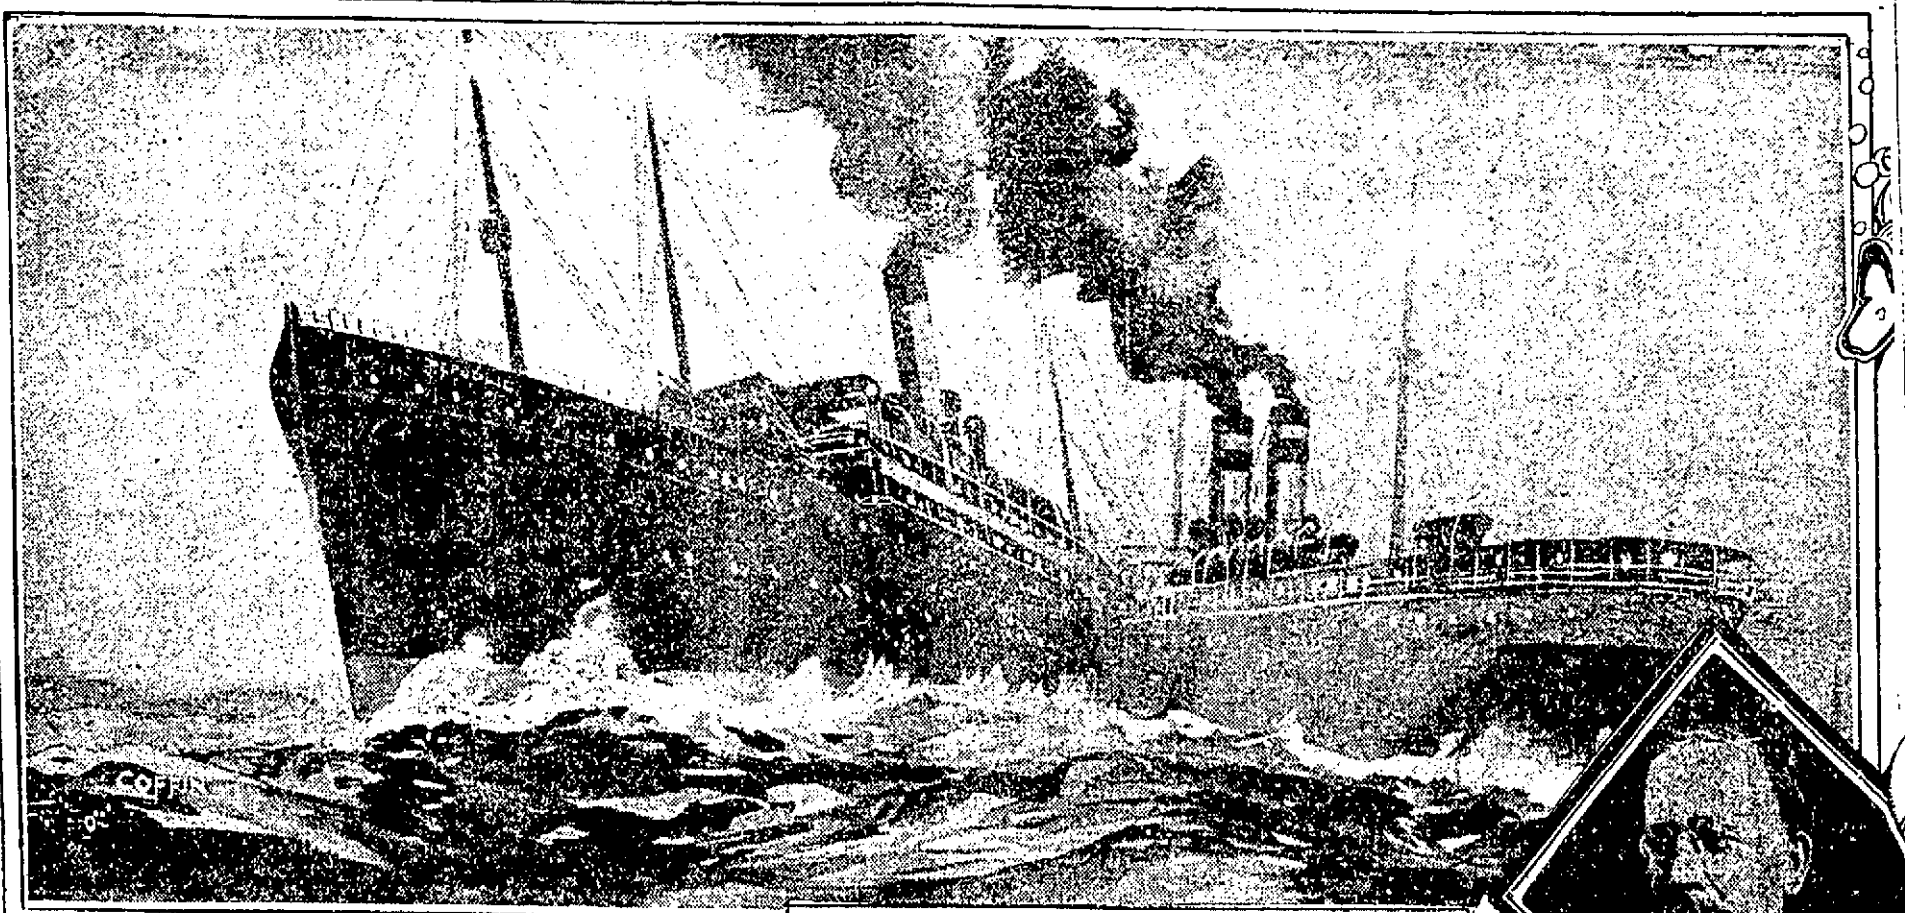

Private Car of Executive
Head of Vandalia Road
Jumped the Track.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 26.—Train number 44, the Pittsburg special from St. Louis on the Pan Handle division of the Pennsylvania railway, was wrecked at 6:05 a. m. today between Conesville and Trinway, 133 miles west of Pittsburg. Seven passengers and G. B. McKeen, general manager of the Vandalia lines, were injured, none of them seriously, it is said.

The train was eastbound when the two rear cars, the Burnley, from Louisville to Pittsburg, and special car number 9528, Mr. McKeen's private car, left the tracks and turned over on their sides. It is presumed the wreck was caused by a broken rail.

The train was running about fifty miles an hour on straight track when the accident occurred. The two rear cars left the track, turning on their sides and went down a three-foot embankment. They were badly wrecked but it is said by the officials that none of the eleven persons injured are in a serious condition. General Manager Benjamin McKeen is said to have sustained cuts and bruises on his head and face. With the exception of two damaged cars the train and passengers are expected here at noon.

HEARING IN GREAT HARRIMAN MERGER POSTPONED

Half Billion Dollar Concern
Will be Aired in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 26.—The federal government's effort to dissolve the famous "$500,000,000 Harriman merger" was again postponed today owing to the absence in New York of C. A. Severance, the chief attorney of the government. The hearing was expected to begin here today in private chambers in the federal building before Sylvester G. Williams, of Denver, Colo., a special government examiner. About thirty prominent Pittsburg manufacturers and shippers have been summoned and will give testimony in the hearings which, when begun, will continue ten days. The suit was filed in Utah less than a year ago and is brought under the Sherman Anti-Trust act. The defendants named are as follows:

The Union Pacific Railroad company, The Oregon Short line, the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake, the Southern Pacific company, the Farmers Loan and Trust company, Northern Pacific, Oregon Railroad and Navigation company, Great Northern, E. H. Harriman, Jacob H. Schiff, Otto H. Kahn, James Stillman, Henry P. Rogers, Senator William A. Clark and H. C. Frick.

The specific charge made by the government is that the combination restrains trade in the territory where the roads in the merger operate.

ROOT REFUSES TO EXTRADITE A RUSSIAN

Refugee Charged With Murder
Need Not Go Back to be Tried.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Secretary Root has refused to extradite Christian Rudowitz, the Russian, for whose possession the Russian government has made vigorous representations. Christian Rudowitz, whose extradition on charges of murder, arson, and other crimes was demanded by the Russian government, and involving counter contentions that the offenses were in furtherance of a political movement, will not be extradited. This decision was announced today by Secretary of State Root.

In effect the extradition of Rudowitz was refused because the offense charged comes under the general prohibition against extradition in the treaty with Russia which declares that if it be made to appear that extradition is sought with the view to try or punish for an offense of a political character surrender shall not take place. The testimony was taken in case by United States Commissioner Foote at Chicago.

JEFF DAVIS GIVES GAMBLERS A PROD

Speaks on His Bill to Deny
Use of Mails to Speculation in Futures.

ARKANSAS ORATOR
IS IMPASSIONED

Would Wipe Out All Board and Exchange Gambling in the Country.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—The evils attending gambling in the products of the soil by the sale of futures on the exchanges was the subject of a passionate speech delivered by Senator Jeff Davis in the United States senate today. Mr. Davis advocated the passage of a bill introduced by him to penalize the use of the mails, the telegraph or the telephone for the purpose of conveying gambling propositions between buyer and seller.

After advocating the passage of this measure Mr. Davis denounced what he declared to be evils of the "money power," and incidentally touched upon the policy of maintaining a protective tariff as a part of a system which he declared was for the suppression of the rights of the people. Wants a Caesar in the White House.

Picturing conditions in Rome at the time of Julius Caesar, he described the death of Caesar as the price of Caesar's love and service for the poor, declaring:
"Would to God we had a Caesar in the white house today."

At the conclusion of his narrative of the acts of the Roman emperor in securing laws to suppress usury and in obtaining legislation for the benefit of the poor of Rome followed by his tragic death, when "surrounded by the treachery of the money power, twenty-three knife wounds pierced his body," Senator Davis said:

"This, sir, is a brief history of Rome and its great reformer, illustrating the terrible fate that lies in the path of any man who seeks to shake loose from the throat of this government these parasites of wealth, these stock gamblers, these stock jobbers that attempt to control the destinies of the government."

"Ah, the money power may be pressing the American people too far. In some evil hour, in some unguarded moment, a match may be touched to

GOVERNOR HASKELL FIGURES IN TOWN LOT SCANDAL

Probe to be Sunk in Land Deals of Bad Color in Oklahoma.

Muskogee, Okla., Jan. 26.—With the sitting here today of the federal grand jury to investigate the alleged town lot frauds, Muskogee becomes the cynosure of the eyes of half a nation. That the government regards the matter of great import is evidenced by the fact that the jury is closely watched and guarded by secret service men, rumor has it that there is a man for every juror. Additional interest is added to the case by reason of the implication of the governor, Charles N. Haskell, in the investigation. He, in turn, declares the entire matter is due to the enmity of William R. Hearst. This ramification of the case is an echo of the presidential campaign of last year.

Facts of the Case.
In the years 1900 and 1901 a large number of lots were disposed of to purchasers who registered their names with the government in much the same manner as when land is "homesteaded." Federal authorities now claim that unscrupulous men scheduled the names of a number of "dummies" and thus obtained titles to a number of lots when they were entitled to but one. In some cases it is claimed, this was done without the knowledge of the "dummy" and in other the "dummy" was a mere figure head and surrendered his title gratuitously or for a small compensation. About 250 of these persons whose names are said to have been used in this manner are now here, having been subpoenaed by the government from more than a score of states.

It is confidently expected by many that several men "high up" in local affairs will be bit by the investigation. The Indianapolis Contracting company, of which Governor Haskell is president, owns many town lots. These lots embrace from one fourth of an acre to four acres.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Getz returned this morning from Salem, O., where they attended the funeral held yesterday of Mrs. Getz's sister, Mrs. Charles Schreiber, who was formerly Miss Laura Perriguy.

TOLD JUDGE TO GO TO SATANIC MAJESTY

Talesman in Cooper Murder Trial is Told He Will Get His All Right.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 26.—The effort to secure a jury in the case of the state against Colonel D. B. Cooper, Robin Cooper and John D. Sharpe, charged with the murder of former Senator E. W. Carmack, was resumed this morning. Some four hundred talesmen, summoned Saturday, were in court early today. Through some strange freak of chance, nearly ninety per cent of the last venire of five hundred men are residents of Nashville and therefore, men not likely to qualify as jurors because they have read the evidence in the hearing for bond or were partisans in the factions. There are in the jury wheel now about three thousand names and the court officials believe it incredible that out of these men there cannot be found enough unbiased talesmen to complete the jury.

Consigns Judge "To the Devil."
G. W. Kleber, one of the talesmen, when summoned, said:
"Tell the judge to go to the devil. I am too busy to serve as a juror." The officer, who served him, reported to Judge Hart this morning. Kleber was brought in.
"Sit down over there," said the court, "I want send you to the devil right away, but I'll send you some place else after while."

Kleber was seated in custody of an officer while the examination of talesmen proceeded.
Had Been Reading St. Paul.
F. N. Grier, was willing to sit on the jury, although he was a friend of John D. Sharpe, one of the defendants. Until two years ago he would not vote for hanging.
"Since then," he said "I've read Paul's writin' an' he says 'Submit yourselves to all authority and ordinances that be over ye' so I believe the law is authority."

"You would like to get off?" inquired Judge Anderson, of Grier.
"I shore would."

INDIANA SENATE PASSES TWO BILLS

Three Mile Road Law and Tax Ferret Pay Law
Go Through.

SUNDAY BASEBALL
STARTS IN HOUSE

Committee's Favorable Report Adopted—The Day's Work.

Indianapolis, Jan. 26.—The senate this afternoon passed the Wood bill legalizing contracts for special work made by county officers without consent of the county commissioners.

The purpose of the bill is to enable tax ferrets to obtain their fees. The vote was 35 to 2.

The Mattingly bill, amending the three mile road law was passed in the senate this afternoon by a vote of 31 to 13.

The bill leaves the construction of roads to the discretion of the county commissioners.

In the house today the Brolley bill repealing the act prohibiting the playing of base ball on Sunday was unanimously reported from the committee and without a dissenting vote the report recommending its passage was adopted.

THE DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—Democrats and republicans of the house of representatives crossed swords this morning over a minor bill to appropriate money for the printing of reports of the state fish and game commissioner. The republican minority yielded without a dissenting vote to the bill to reduce the staff of the governor's office and thereby surprised the majority.

Both houses assembled at 10 o'clock, the house to take up committee reports and bills on second reading.

The senate received ten new bills and reports of committees. Adjournment till 10 o'clock tomorrow morning was taken in the house out of respect to the memory of Representative Sarber, whose funeral takes place at Argos this afternoon.

The senate took a recess at noon until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Clash Over Fish Report Bill.

The democratic policy of cutting down expenses was the cause of the clash over the fish report bill in the house. The bill, as it came up for second reading and amendment, provided that ten thousand copies of the report be printed. Representative Furnas, republican, wanted to amend

FOUR PERISH IN A BURNING HOTEL IN TEXAS

Hostelry at Fort Worth is Gutted and Guests are the Victims.

Fort Worth, Texas, Jan. 26.—Four men were burned or suffocated to death and another fatally burned here today in a fire which gutted the Southern hotel, on Jones street, opposite the Santa Fe passenger station. An explosion of a gas stove caused the fire, which also heavily damaged six other buildings in the same block. All were frame structures and the fire spread rapidly. Several women employed by the hotel suffered slight burns. Ambulances carried the bodies of the victims to the city hospital, where all were identified.

The dead:
MILAM HAMILTON, of Cleburn, Texas.
CHARLES BRYANT, of Makumba, Ills.

JOSEPH VAUGHAN, of St. Louis.
DR. PETTY, of Hugo, Okla.
Injured:
J. B. Manning, of Dallas; W. S. Stearns and wife and Miss Lou Alexander.

After the explosion only a few minutes elapsed until the hotel was wrapped in flames. Efforts to awaken the sleeping men failed. The police fired their revolvers as a last resort and it is believed this awakened them, but too late to save their lives.

J. B. Manning, of Dallas, risked his life and dragged out the bodies of Bryant and Petty. Manning was forced to leap through a sheet of flame to safety and in doing so fell, injuring one of his limbs.

Mrs. W. R. Stegall was in bed and was forced to rush through the flames. She is now in a state of collapse. Four persons saved their lives by jumping from the third story of the hotel to a roof adjoining the building. Mr. Vaughan's wife and two children arrived from St. Louis today to join him.

MRS. RACHEL ECKERT PASSES FROM EARTH

Estimable Woman Long a Resident of Fort Wayne —The Deaths.

Following a decline in health which began more than a year ago, Mrs. Rachel A. Eckert, 72 years of age, died at 4:15 o'clock this morning at her home, 127 West Williams street. She was the widow of John C. Eckert, the veteran Fort Wayne cigar manufacturer, whose death occurred fourteen years ago. Mrs. Eckert's death was due to a complication of diseases which involved a hardening of the arteries. More than a year ago her health began to fail, and while her condition became markedly more serious two weeks ago, the end was hardly expected at this time, and death came rather suddenly.

Mrs. Eckert was born in Dauphin, Dauphin county, Pa., September 10, 1830, and she was united in marriage at Harrisburg, Pa., February 8, 1857, to John C. Eckert. Mr. and Mrs. Eckert came to Fort Wayne in September, 1863, the husband after some years embarking in the manufacture of cigars and soon becoming one of the leading business men of the city. Mrs. Eckert was a woman of exalted character, possessing a very wide circle of friends and enjoying universal respect and esteem. She was a member of the First Baptist church and of the order of the Eastern Star. Six children survive. They are Dr. Charles Eckert, of Marion; Jess H. Eckert, of Grand Rapids; William E. Eckert, of Fort Wayne; John C. Eckert, all of Fort Wayne. Other relatives include five grandchildren, besides a brother and three sisters—D. B. Walters, Mrs. Louisa Throckmorton and Mrs. Lena Hollister of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. Belle Burris, of Arkansas.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Smiley—Funeral services of Mrs. Leola Smiley will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, 1115 East Pontiac street, and will be private.

eration for acts to be done corruptly and unlawfully.

The charges against United States Senator Stephenson, number sixteen in all, the concluding charge stating that "The primary nomination or election was obtained by the use of large sums of money corruptly and illegally and by violation of the statutes relating to illegal voting, bribery and corruption."

Senator Martin opposed the investigation unless proper specific charges, timely filed had been presented. "They should be based upon something besides wind and newspaper clippings," he said.

"A motion in the assembly to recall the investigation resolution from the committee was lost, 20 to 58."

The resolution was later killed in the assembly on a vote to reconsider, 7 to 31.

Senator Blaine sent to the speaker's desk a joint resolution for an investigation to take the place of that of Senator Hugging. This resolution provides immunity from arrest for all who may testify to the commission of bribery but not immunity for perjury before the commission.

The senate vote on reconsideration of killing of joint resolution to investigate the senatorial primary was 22 in favor and 11 against.

Refused to Vote.

Fifteen members of the assembly refused to vote for the United States senatorship. Fourteen of these were republicans.

On the first ballot the vote stood:—Stephenson, republican, 60; Neal Brown, democrat, 16; Jacob S. Rummel, social democrat, 3; S. A. Cook, republican, 2; Cooper, republican, 1; Esch, republican, 1; J. H. Stout, 1; Black, 15. Total, 99.

The senate did not vote, but took a recess until 3 o'clock.

A telegram announcing the death of Miss Victoria Kinney, was received this morning by Mr. and Mrs. David Ralphy, of Bass street. Miss Kinney was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kinney, of Avilla, but was well known in this city, having spent some time here with friends each year. As yet there have been no funeral announcements, but they will be made later.

the bill by having twenty thousand copies.

Garrard, the democratic floor leader, immediately moved that the Furman amendment be tabled and after considerable debate this was done by a vote of 52 to 37. Representative Garrard declared that the amendment would cost the state $10,000.

Wells' Bill Loses Out.

Four bills were reported for indefinite postponement by the committee on roads, including the Smith and the McGinnis bills to repeal the three mile road law, Wells' bill to provide that farmers shall work out road tax in front of their own property and Banta's bill to authorize county commissioners to build roads after viewing without calling election. A minority report on the Wells bill was presented.

The expected clash over the Faulkner bill to reduce the staff of the governor's office did not develop. When the bill was brought up for second reading and amendment there was silence on the republican side and all the republicans voted to send the bill to engrossment. For a moment there was silence, which finally was broken by laughter from the republican side. Representative King, the minority floor leader, said the republicans were disposed to let the bill go to the senate.

There he expected it to be amended by the republican majority. The house republicans will vote against the measure when it comes up for passage.

Sunday Ball Bill Reported.

The first house committee report this morning was that in favor of the Brolley bill to repeal the Sunday base ball bill. This report was signed by all members of the committee following a public meeting last night in which arguments were heard. The report of the committee was adopted by the house without a dissenting vote.

The committee on insurance killed the Stahl bill forbidding agents of mutual insurance companies to solicit business outside their county. The bill requiring life insurance agents to be licensed was reported for passage. Bills by Askron and Cochran to lower the standard for teachers, were reported for indefinite postponement by the committee on education. The committee on ways and means recommended the Stahl bill to ventilate the state capitol better for passage.

Senate Passes Bills.

Three bills were passed by the senate this morning. The Kistner bill allowing tax liens on real estate to run ten years went through. This bill, its author says, will cause more care in the purchase of property. Other bills passed by the senate were the Kilgus measure to legalize acts of notaries public whose commissions have expired and to compel justices to hold courts of inquiry at the demand of prosecutors.

The senate made the passage of the Cary superior court bill special order for 2 o'clock this afternoon. Senator Durrie's bill, requiring the supreme court to interpret statutes according to the intent was recommended for indefinite postponement by the committee on judiciary.

Another bill reported for indefinite postponement was the Yarding measure to pay witnesses in commissioners' courts.

Senator Wood introduced two bills this morning. One would change the time for filing mortgages after a sale from forty-two to three days and the other allows building and loan associations to have a reserve fund of 15 instead of 5 per cent.

Before adjournment the senate received a communication from the Whitley County Farmers' Institute petitioning that the county local option law be kept on the books.

the mast head lights, a distance of many feet. I rested there and took out a blue light. It was wet and would not go off and I then fired the last shot from my revolver. The water had now caught up to me, coming under my great coat, and I floated. The revolver and my binocular held my coat down, acting as a sort of ballast. At this time the water was a roaring, seething mass all about me. Caught in the whirlpool.

"I was caught in a whirlpool for some time and I was churned around until I came to the surface. I tried to pull off my coat, but could not. There was considerable debris about me and I managed to catch hold of some broken spars. Then I caught a large hatch covering and pulled myself out on the hatch and lay on it spread eagle fashion.

"The searchlights had been playing on the ship and were now playing on the spot where she went down. It seemed an interminable time until they saw me, but I managed to load my revolver again and fired it to attract their attention. The bullets had been greased and that kept them dry. "I was getting weak, cold and numb. I just lay on the hatch and saved my strength until the last, shouting at intervals. Then, when the lights played on me, I waved a towel which I had found floating near me and shortly afterward the boats from the revenue cutter Gresham picked me up and carried me aboard. I found Williams in that little life boat. I thought I had seen the last of him."

WIFE MAKES DEMAND FOR $2,000 IN MONEY

Mabel Ehrlich Thinks that Much Will Do— The Courts.

Mabel Ehrlich, who visited her apartments above the Pauly Bunch saloon on West Main street a few days ago and handled the tableware so roughly that it had to be sent to the scrap heap afterward and who was fined in the city court next morning for drunkenness, is out after $2,000 of the coin belonging to Henry Ehrlich, her husband. She filed suit for support in the superior court today and made a demand for the money. She made a local bank and Pauly Bunch defendants.

They have been married since June, 1903, and last week, she charges, he deserted her and refused to provide for her. She says he has threatened to kill her, has struck, choked and beaten her and employed an old man and a negro to follow her in the hope of finding that her associates were not proper. He owns a half interest in the Bunch saloon and she states her husband is the proprietor of another in the rolling mill district. Judge R. B. Dreibeisli filed the action.

In Less Than Year.

Della Hoffman applied in the superior court today for a divorce from Henry Hoffman, to whom she was married on August 5, of last year against the wishes of her friends and everybody else that knew Hoffman. She states that he choked and struck her until she borrowed money from her parents and gave it to him. He has bought her no clothing, she says and contributed nothing to her support.

Hoffman has had a number of rounds with the police and the last time he was up his sister came to his rescue and got a suspended sentence under the promise that he would go to work and stick. He failed to stick and spent most of his time loafing in the courthouse corridors. Emrick and Emrick are her attorneys.

Did Not Support Her.

In her divorce complaint against Louis J. Treuchel, Mamie Treuchel charges that he did not support her after their marriage in December, 1906, and that she sewed and earned the money to pay rent, grocery bills and to clothe herself. Their temperaments are incompatible and they quarreled continually she says. Ballou and Hoffman filed the action.

Special Judge On Bench.

Judge Heaton was in Huntington hearing a case and Phil B. Colerick occupied the superior court bench during his absence.

Funds are Distributed.

Auditor George W. Lindemuth has made a distribution of the state school funds allowed to Allen county. The total is $42,801.86 of which the city will receive $35,866.15.

With this sum and the fall collection of taxes the school city realizes a total of $131,006.80, which is divided as follows: Special school, $31,618.44; general tuition, $35,866.15; local tuition, $34,874.46; new bonds and interest, $10,062.24; manual training, $10,062.24; library, $5,748.43; compulsory education, $1,437.47; kindergarten, $1,437.47.

Of the state school funds Wayne township will receive $1,559.79. The various funds now in the hands of Trustees Branning from the fall taxes are as follows: Special school, $338.90; general tuition, $1,559.79; local tuition, $1,050.24; township fund, $2,969.43; poor fund, $2,969.44; road fund, $48.98; special road fund, $34.83.

Juries Are Drawn.

The grand and petit juries for the February term of the circuit court were drawn today. The grand jurors are Delbert Brooks, St. Joe township; Henry Franger, Fort Wayne; Henry F. C. Franke, Madison; Nelson Miller, Jefferson; Barney Cline, Wayne; Ell Yoder, Perry. The petit jurors are Alexander Hoffelinger, Ernest G. Hall, Perry township; Frederick Hegerfeldt, Gustave Frederick, Madison; Clifton H. Kinsey, Ezra H. Horn, Springfield; H. S. Colodot, Jefferson; E. W. Slump, Lafayette; Jacob Friestrotter, Marion; Clarence Ranson, Milan; Benjamin H. Rekers, Fort Wayne.

WANTS ELECTION NEWS.

Capt. Harvey Hite, Now in Missouri, Hasn't Heard Results.

Capt. H. T. Hite, former well known Fort Wayne veteran, who removed to Missouri some months ago, hasn't heard the results of last November's elections in Allen county, and he is anxious for news—particularly on joint senator.

Capt. Hite is located at Knobnoster, Mo., and he has written to Attorney T. J. Logan for a summary of results in Allen county and Wayne township, explaining that no news of the election has yet reached him. Mr. Logan is supplying the information.

WRECKED BY GAS EXPLOSION.

Bradford, Pa., Jan. 26.—An explosion of natural gas early today wrecked the plant of the Tuna Valley Pressed Brick company and seriously injured R. C. Gordon and Phillip Derry, employed in the engine room. The plant is located at Lewis Run, Pa., and the damage is heavy.

The final arrangements for the dance to be given at the Wayne club by the local Hibernians Thursday evening have been completed and everything is in readiness. Dancing will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

They have been married since June, 1903, and last week, she charges, he deserted her and refused to provide for her. She says he has threatened to kill her, has struck, choked and beaten her and employed an old man and a negro to follow her in the hope of finding that her associates were not proper. He owns a half interest in the Bunch saloon and she states her husband is the proprietor of another in the rolling mill district. Judge R. B. Dreibeisli filed the action.

In Less Than Year.

Della Hoffman applied in the superior court today for a divorce from Henry Hoffman, to whom she was married on August 5, of last year against the wishes of her friends and everybody else that knew Hoffman. She states that he choked and struck her until she borrowed money from her parents and gave it to him. He has bought her no clothing, she says and contributed nothing to her support.

Hoffman has had a number of rounds with the police and the last time he was up his sister came to his rescue and got a suspended sentence under the promise that he would go to work and stick. He failed to stick and spent most of his time loafing in the courthouse corridors. Emrick and Emrick are her attorneys.

Did Not Support Her.

In her divorce complaint against Louis J. Treuchel, Mamie Treuchel charges that he did not support her after their marriage in December, 1906, and that she sewed and earned the money to pay rent, grocery bills and to clothe herself. Their temperaments are incompatible and they quarreled continually she says. Ballou and Hoffman filed the action.

Special Judge On Bench.

Judge Heaton was in Huntington hearing a case and Phil B. Colerick occupied the superior court bench during his absence.

FRIEND OF FISHING DAYS SAVED FROM JAIL WALLS

Officer Terry Succeeds in Having Fine Lifted— Police Court.

It may not always pay to have a "stand-in" with some member of the police force when it comes to appearing before the judge of the Fort Wayne city court but there was one individual in the "line-up" this morning who had the good fortune to be given an opportunity to mend his ways merely because he was an old friend.

While chancing to enter the O'Brien saloon on Calhoun street at the corner of Lewis yesterday afternoon Chief Ankenbruck noticed a man who gave his name as Murry huddled under some old blankets in the rear room of the saloon and sent him to the station house. Murry had nothing to say for himself this morning and Judge Skelton fined him one dollar and costs. At the adjournment of court, however, Station Master Terry happened to remark within the hearing of the judge that this was Murry's first offence and that he had money to buy a return ticket to his Grand Rapids home.

Murry was brought before the judge again and after relating something about himself the judge suspended the fine and an appreciative smile flickered across Terry's countenance. Officer Dickson perceived the unusual interest displayed by Terry in the case and confronted him with a question as to the reason for it. Terry did not deny that he and Murry had often gone fishing together near Terry's old home in Michigan and the matter was passed off as a good one on the judge.

The Other Cases.

A fine of $5 and costs was handed out to one Peter Certia, who bears no relation to the well known man of that name living in this city. The man in court this morning was arrested Monday evening on the charge of drunkenness, as he had gone to his home here and abused his wife and the whole family. The family has been living here only a short time, the last former residence being in New Haven.

Frank Polser was arrested by Officer Nave yesterday for drunkenness and this morning was fined $5 and costs. He had a five dollar bill and thought he could pay the fine but soon learned that the total would amount to $15.

E. P. BIGKNELL GETS THE RED CROSS MEDAL

Former Indiana Man Highly Honored by Society for His Work.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Ernest P. Bicknell, formerly of Indianapolis, was solemnly honored yesterday in the annual report of the American Red Cross, which was transmitted to congress by Secretary of War Luke E. Wright. The report contains the information that Mr. Bicknell has been awarded a special medal for "important and valuable services to the Red Cross after the San Francisco earthquake." Commenting on the acceptance by Bicknell of the office of managing director of the Red Cross, the report says:

"October 1, 1906, the central committee of the Red Cross secured the services of an expert in relief work, who in the character of national director, is able to proceed at once to the scene of any disaster to act in concert with the local relief societies as to those measures which may be deemed requisite to meet the emergency conditions. The lack of an agent to act for the Red Cross on such occasions has often been felt."

Pleased With Bicknell.

"The committee considered itself especially fortunate in having been able to secure the services as national director of Ernest P. Bicknell, who for several years has been at the head of the charity work in Chicago. The Red Cross was so fortunate as to have been able in 1906 to secure the temporary assistance of Mr. Bicknell to act for our association at the time when the need of expert advice was felt so keenly. It has been made possible for the committee to contract for Mr. Bicknell's permanent co-operation, paying for his services with the income from a handsome donation to our endowment fund by Mrs. Russell Sage, supplemented by a substantial contribution to the administration fund by the Russell Sage foundation."

"Mr. Bicknell's engagement dates from October 14 and his initial work was a visit to Minnesota and Michigan to carefully study the situation in the territory devastated by

They entered the mine shortly after five o'clock and while they were in the mine a second and third explosion occurred, about six o'clock. These explosions had the effect of tearing down great quantities of coal, slate and rock in the interior, completely preventing the men from reaching the outside. State Mine Inspector Lowther, of Somerset, was soon at the scene and from the miners who had not been allowed to go to work until the investigating party returned, rescuing shifts were quickly formed.

Unable To Go In Far.

The rescuers were unable to penetrate the mine any great distance. Towards midnight the interior of the mine became intensely warm and it was believed fire had broken out. Fortunately this was not correct.

At 5 o'clock this morning the body of Superintendent Logan was recovered. He had succumbed to black damp.

A short time later Andrew Stonch's body was found and five members of the rescue party were overcome by the poisonous gas. They were carried to the open air and revived with difficulty.

At 6 o'clock a rescue crew again entered the mine, but at that hour it was not expected that any of those entrapped would be brought out alive.

SPORTSMEN WILL MEET.

Discussion of New Closed Season Law Will Be Held.

For the purpose of discussing the law providing a closed fishing season with hook and line between the middle of March and the first of July as proposed by a law now before the legislature, a meeting of the sportsmen of Allen county will be held in the assembly room of the courthouse on Friday evening of this week.

GAINED TWELVE POUNDS WITHIN SIX WEEKS

This Alexandria Woman Says
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills
Saved Her Life.

When the blood becomes thin and weak all of the organs and tissues of the body suffer from lack of nourishment, for it is the blood that is constantly carrying to every part of the human system the materials with which to repair the waste that is going on throughout life. Naturally the weakest organ is the first to show the result of this blood starvation and any inherited tendency to disease is then likely to develop. Whatever it may be, if the trouble is caused by lack of blood it must be corrected by building up the blood.

Mrs. Wm. A. Hatt, of 710 Minnesota avenue, Alexandria, Ind., says that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved her life. She relates her experience as follows:

"I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a run-down condition following an operation and an attack of typhoid fever. A little over six years ago I underwent a severe operation and soon after came down with the typhoid. When I again got up my health was wrecked. I had no appetite, felt sick to my stomach after eating and was troubled with gas on my stomach. My bowels were terribly constipated and nothing helped them. I had no strength and was unable to do my housework. My liver was out of order and I had a great deal of pain under my left shoulder blade and down my back along the spine. I couldn't sleep or rest nights at all and became so thin that I weighed only 94 pounds. My husband and neighbors didn't think I would ever get well.

"We were living in Muncie during my sickness and I failed to get any help from my doctors. I tried many kinds of medicines that were recommended to me but didn't get any benefit. Finally I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and felt better in a few days for I began to rest and sleep nights and my stomach felt easier. In six weeks I had gained twelve pounds and continued to gain in weight until I was well again. The pills did wonders for me for I believe if it hadn't been for them I would now be in my grave."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c. per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

CHARITY CALLED ON TO DO A LITTLE OVERTIME

Hard-Worked Virtue Excuse for Eighteenth Show of the Elks.

"Bruder Bougher, kin you tell muh why the annual Elks' minstrel show is like a can tied to a dawg's tail."

"Indeed Brother Grosjean I am unable to fathom the meaning of your query. Will you kindly explain why this gallant display of art and nerve resembles a discarded preserved fruit receptacle attached to the caudal appendage of a canine."

"Because it's bound to a cur."

Then everybody braced him or herself and it occurred. For nearly two hours the members of lodge No. 155, B. P. O. E., demonstrated how easy it is to get money by main force. Seventeen times the antlered brotherhood had entrenched itself behind the bulwarks of sweet charity and wrestled from a forewarned public bright, shining simoleons that stayed the gaunt wolf of hunger and want at the doorway of the deserving poor caught in the great maelstrom of poverty and buffeted in its merciless, swirling waters until the far reaching hand of benevolence gathered it to the warm breast of hope and love and cured its hurts and bruises. Last night was the eighteenth time and the great audience that occupied every seat in the Majestic theater saw way out beyond the burnt cork and gaudy uniforms the forms of hungry women and children, shivering and ill clad who are to be relieved by the generous undertaking of the local lodge.

Many people attended in person and others sent their small children. However that may have been, the house was filled and enough tickets have been sold to fill it again tonight, so what's the difference. If anybody there had no charity in his or her heart he or she got just what he or she deserved.

Eighteen consecutive appearances is excuse enough to do anything to the public and Mr. Albert C. Alter, on whose shoulders most of the responsibility rested has authorized the announcement that anybody who was there and is not satisfied with the entertainment can on application at the box office deposit the price of another ticket.

The Attack Was Fierce. The show opened with the old time minstrel setting, bones, tambos and all with Frank E. Bougher clad in a fawn and a dress suit, as the interlocutor. There was a trained chorus under the direction of Miss Leah Cohen. In the choral numbers the attacks were fierce and the slaughter worse. The whole first part was interspersed with quips and merry jests and every actor got by with what he had to do.

Charles S. Hanna opened the musical program with "Arrah Abrah" and he had to sing the last verse over again either because he didn't do it right the first time or because the audience liked it. "I Don't Want No White Wash Man" gave A. Wichman a chance to do some lofty and ground vocalizing that not only brought him applause but earned for him some delicately arranged horticultural tributes that were passed over the foot lights. They were passed collectively and did little damage.

"The Golden Links are Broken," rendered by Ed Derheimer was real singing and all the money earned on that particular song was carried without any false pretenses. Darrel Hallenstein sprung through the medium of "No One Loves a Fat Man" a surprise that almost rose to the dignity of a sensation. He demonstrated that he can sing and dance at the same time without the aid of any life saving apparatus and he sat down amid an outburst of generous applause.

"Dreaming of You," by Val Ewig, was some more real singing and it was well rendered and the audience fully demonstrated that it considered the

AN ITCHING PALM

No Cure for It. Other Forms of Itching Preferable.

But when it comes to eczema, the most annoying of itching skin troubles, poslam will stop the itching at once and cure the worst cases in a few days. So with hives, rash, scabies, split toes, piles, and scaly scalp, all of which are different forms of eczema, accompanied by severe itching and caused by imperfect digestion and careless diet.

Poslam comes in two-dollar jars, but fifty cents worth will answer in curing any of the diseases mentioned. It can be had of any druggist. Meyer Bros. Co. make a specialty of it.

That results are immediate will be amply demonstrated over night by the use of the experimental sample which the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City, will send free by mail, in plain wrapper, to any one who will write for it.

singer some vocalist. "Baby Doll" was Barry Tolan's escape valve for the surcharge of harmony that he had stored up for the occasion and he worked the words and music out of his system with sufficient effectiveness to get a hearty encore.

Joe Grosjean told of the loving care of a gentle and impossible spouse in a beautiful little thing christened "I'm Glad I'm Married" and he did it so well that he made the people believe he meant it and along with the others he was called back to tell about it a second time.

Some Music Again.

Maurice C. Niezer with "Roses Bring Dreams of You" injected another installment of music into the program and—Oh, well everybody who knows anything knows he can sing and do it well and there you are. Harry Bailey sang "Money" just like it was something he was familiar with. Joking aside Bailey's song was the hit of the evening. It was given with a professional finish and he answered a couple of encores that were not jollies.

Meet Me in Rose Time, Rose" was a musical number by D. F. Urbahn. Its arrangement was good and the whistling chorus had to be repeated a couple of times before the audience was satisfied with it. This number was strikingly good. "Good Evening Caroline" was another distinct hit. No kidding about this, it was all right. George Kress engineered it and his singing and dancing were both good. James J. Dormer is one of the old timers not barred by the age limit and the duty of winding up the minstrel part of the entertainment was entrusted to his care.

"Way Back" was his theme and he was all to the good through the entire song, so good that he got the only real flowers of the evening. He has been in the business so long that he understands the art of getting flowers at every performance whether anybody sends them or not.

Pete Deitschell with "In the Good Old United States" furnished the vehicle for the tout ensemble, grand finale or whatever that last thing was. He was clad in an army coat and a saber two sizes too large for him. That is the saber was too large. The coat wasn't so bad.

The Beginning of the End. Professor Fred J. Reineke engineered his musicians through a bunch of discords entitled "The Village Orchestra," and drove a lot of people to drink. Some of them would probably have gone to drink anyhow, but the rendition was an excuse for two or three drinks.

Kress, Bailey and Meyers, assisted by a rustic bench and some home grown scenery, did a plantation pastime stunt that amused. Bailey had some elongated finger for the sake of decency he had as well cut out tonight, or if it is necessarily a part of his costume, it would not be amiss to avoid the display of last night, which was vulgar.

Myron Downing, who delighted audiences here twenty-five years ago with his aged darkey stunt, sang "It's Gwine Back to Dixie" with the aid of a stick. Two encores told what the audience thought of his performance, which was an excellent portrayal of the old minstrel negro that's always good.

One of the bangtails that was used in "The Handicap" either bucked at the barrier or threw a shoe just before the race, as Professor Reineke steamed up with his grand entry a couple of times before he finally enticed Geo. Kress, Chas. Glenn, Harry R.ley, Al Monahan, Ed Meyers and F. Bender from the wings. They were mounted on fiery chargers and the difficulty of restraining their mounts cramped the vocalizing, but at that they had a double come back before they finally were let go.

Manager Owes Apology. Manager Alter wants to make a public apology for the next number, which was entitled "Schmitzbank."

In this touching little piece nine stanzas, nine underlatter chairs, two tables and H. Hattersley, Otto Hartwig, Kink Kowalski, Fred Marhenke, O. H. Meyers, A. Ortleb, Geo. Noll, Ed Englekling and Christ Winninghoff were the "props." The apology is due from the fact that few of the men were familiar with the practical use of staves. He has ordered early practice for today and declares that he will keep the men at it all day if necessary.

Ronald Dawson preceded the grand round up with two illustrated songs, "In Dear Old Indiana" and "My Rosie Rambler," which were effectively given.

The performance closed with the songs of all nations, in which the French were C. Hanna, V. Ewig, Jos. Smith, L. Michels, Ed Derheimer; the Scotch, J. Dormer; Otto Hartwig; G. Hartman, H. Henry Reed, J. V. Wilson; the Irish, Al. Monahan, M. C. Niezer, P. Deitschell, Ed Englekling; Geo. Piepenbrink; the German, A.

Will Be Given Tonight. In conformity with established custom the same program will be given tonight for the reason that all the people who bought tickets could not get in last night. Great things are promised for the final performance and if there is an able-bodied person in Fort Wayne who has not seen it, the advice of The Sentinel is to go tonight. Remember, gentle readers, that this thing will not be pulled off again for a year.

In the meantime that old iron dollar you've got in your pocket can do some roemant service in the relief of suffering. And remember again you are not asked to part with the d. for nothing. Most anybody can get a hundred cents worth or maybe more. Suppose you should part with the dollar and feel after it was all over that the show was not worth it. This is hardly possible, but "just s'posin'" it were possible.

Couldn't you go home and sleep better because of the fact that that old dollar had sent some little tot to bed with a full stomach, a warm coverlet and a little prayer of thanks to whoever had furnished the good things.

The tot would never know the Elks had done it for the reason that the Elks don't do things that way.

SEES BUSINESS REVIVAL.

James J. Hill, the great railway magnate and manager and empire builder of the northwest, declares himself an optimist on the general business condition of the country. In an interview given at his office in New York a day or two ago he expressed extremely sanguine views of the outlook.

TAMING THE ANIMALS.

Chief of Police Ankenbruck has taken a fresh bitch in his belt and served notice on proprietors of saloons of the dive sort that they must "clean up" and remain so; must put their houses in order and see that they stay put.

This edict followed a conference of the chief and a dozen of his men with

"There is no menace in sight," said Mr. Hill, "and, best of all, there is plenty of money in the country. There is some increase in certain kinds of business, and I look for a healthy revival in all lines in the spring. Perhaps the most noteworthy thing is the increased building being carried on. The farmers are well off and putting up new structures, and there is an increase in new construction in all the large cities."

Mr. Hill is a keen, expert and far-sighted observer of conditions. He can see the trend of the evidences of a business revival and pretty accurately estimate the importance of its bearings. It is one thing to hope for improvement, but quite another to feel its coming. There is much in the dynamic force of a positive conviction. If all men in the country could bring themselves to feel the railway magnate's conviction, prosperity booming and well nigh boundless would not be long in coming.

A writer in a well known periodical the other day set down the statement in a very affirmative way that prosperity first of all and mainly is a state of mind—a positive confidence in the future; an aggressive conviction that all is and that all will be well.

To think prosperity is finally to have it. Hill sees it, believes in it, preaches it and beyond doubt is preparing for it. He is helping it to come. And his shoulder does not monopolize all the room at the wheel.

Mayor Hosey. Reports were had from the patrolmen of conditions in general and of specific instances of disorderly saloons. The report must have been interesting; there is plenty of raw material for one. There are saloons which persistently harbor bums, hoboes and beggars. There are some that are resorted to by criminals. There are others that bid for the custom of minors. Numerous places tolerate women and not a few are especially equipped to cater to that trade and to accommodate the unspeakably immoral commerce that springs from it.

Upon such places the unmitigated rigors of the law should descend without delay. Police vigilance will accumulate enough evidence in a week to legally prosecute these sinks out of existence.

We have assurance from the city hall that the dives must be "cleaned up" and conducted according to law or they will be closed. It is good news, which should be happily supplemented by word from the board of county commissioners that that body means henceforth to exercise its lawful discretion in granting saloon licenses.

The welkin is ringing a deal with an all hail Jack Binns. Jack was the wireless operator aboard the ill-fated liner Republic and he stood right at the works flashing a call for help out over the fog-blanketed expanse of briny until his electrical display translated itself into signals of distress from the wireless apparatus of other ships. And the help came. Else there doubtless would have been another appalling tragedy of the sea for the newspapers of the past three days to record instead of a highly thrilling melodrama. Jack Binns is all right. He deserves all the acclaim he is getting. It's likely, however, that he would prefer that some one find him a new ship with a job on it to all the acclaim.

Governor Hughes has been picked by forehanded political gossip-mongers as Roosevelt's rival for the Dewey toga when that suave tribune of the people is stripped a couple of years hence. Interesting, but not at all calculated to breed dismay in any quarter. Roosevelt repeatedly assured by experts that he will not survive his jaunt into the midst of Africa's choicest perils. Moreover, Governor Hughes may discover a few undone things at home that he would like to do. Anyway, either will do. A Hughes or a Roosevelt succeeding Dewey would make the nation's rejoice.

Notwithstanding an expert commission has decided that benzate of soda in moderate quantities in food is not deleterious to health, few will endorse the commission's ruling. It is not always the preservative but the stuff preserved that is not fit to be taken into the stomach. To legalize the use of benzate of soda means a decided lowering of the food standard.

It transpires that the "eternal summer of the seas" around Messina is sharply spiced with fiction. Cold weather and snowstorms are making the unclad victims of the recent convulsion wish their trouble was a volcano instead of an earthquake.

Once more notice has been served on the "bad" saloons that they must "be good." And this time this goes without reservation. Not the veriest shred of string to the order.

The convention of the mineworkers somehow reminds one of a joint session of the British parliament and the suffragettes.

Sweden's royal forestry commission last year supplied forest products worth $13,250,000, yet accumulated timber resources equal to twice the amount of the timber felled.

THEY KNEW BURTON WAS HOSTILE TO PLAN

Local Canal Advocates Undismayed by His Opposition.

Local men who for more than a year have been bending every energy to secure congressional appropriation for a preliminary survey of the proposed Toledo, Fort Wayne and Chicago canal are not at all surprised at the statement of Chairman Burton, of the rivers and harbors committee, who on Monday declared that some of the canal plans might be all right for Mars, but that they were a little dubious for old earth. It has been known for some time that Representative Burton was opposed to the proposition.

Things came to a head Monday when a committee of Ohio citizens appeared before the rivers and harbors committee to urge a favorable report on the bill of Representative Klefer for a survey of the old Miami and Erie canal route from Defiance to Cincinnati as a part of the proposed lake-to-lake canal enterprise to connect Toledo and Chicago.

Says It Would Be Useless. In order that the Toledo-Fort Wayne-Chicago project might not be entirely lost sight of in the discussion, Representative Gilhams, of this district, went before the committee also to urge this measure, and it was at this juncture that Chairman Burton declared his personal belief that a ship canal from Toledo to Chicago would be entirely useless for the purpose assigned.

To go back into history somewhat, it was the Burton opposition that led Representative Gilhams to get his bill asking for an appropriation for a survey referred to the committee on railroads and canals instead of to the rivers and harbors committee. The committee on railroads and canals, of which Representative Davidson, of Minnesota, is chairman, made a favorable report on the measure. Chairman Burton, from his place of eminence at the head of the rivers and harbors committee has never looked favorably upon the enterprise, and it has been understood that his opposition stood solely in the way of enlisting the favor of Speaker Cannon in the matter.

While the action of the rivers and harbors committee, on the Ohio end of the enterprise is a pronounced obstacle in the way of early favorable action, it is not felt here that the obstacle is unsurmountable, and it is announced that the fight for the Fort Wayne canal will be kept up vigorously. Representative Burton has just been elected to the senate from Ohio, and it is expected that he will be succeeded on the rivers and harbors committee by Representative Davidson, of Minnesota, whose committee has already reported favorably upon the bill for a survey, and who is known to be favorable to the development of the inland waterway system.

JUDGE HAS AN OPINION.

Louisiana Liquor Law Does Not Bar Alien Saloonkeepers.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 26.—One of the district court judges in Louisiana has come squarely out in opposition to the opinion of the attorney general that the Gay Shattuck law forbids the issuance of saloon licenses to foreigners who have not become naturalized citizens. In charging the grand jury at Franklin, La., yesterday Judge O'Neill declared:

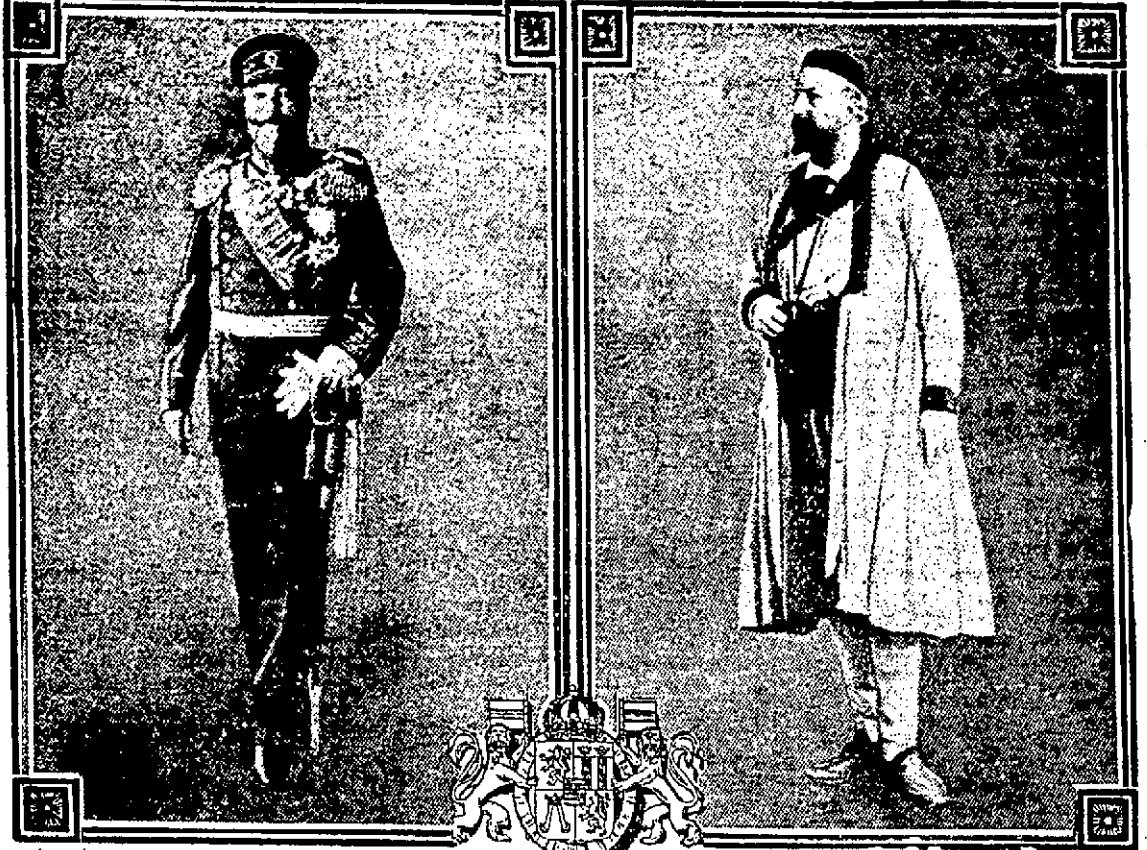

"The word citizen in this statute is used in its broad and general and most ordinary sense, the purpose being to confine the sale of intoxicants to good, law abiding citizens, or citizens of good moral character."

Electric Talks

No. 15

Fort Wayne has a municipal electric plant equal to the city's present demands for producing electricity. It has after filling these demands and providing for emergencies. The only way the city can today supply electric current for any other purposes is to deprive itself—the people, the taxpayers who have provided the funds—of THAT LIGHT AND POWER WHICH BELONG TO THE ENTIRE CITY AND ARE URGENTLY NEEDED BY IT.

Look at what the taxpayers of Fort Wayne have done to provide funds for municipal street lighting through these past eleven years.

Beginning in 1898, with a tax of two and a half cents on each hundred dollars to accumulate a fund for a municipal lighting plant, increasing that tax rate to three and a half cents on a hundred dollars the following year, then to seven and a half cents in 1901, and subsequently; there had been collected up to the end of 1908 from taxation of our citizens, $155,139.78. From last November's installment of 1907 taxes, still due, it was estimated that over $10,000 more would be realized, and, presuming that the entire tax levy of 1908 is eventually collected, another $22,936 will be added.

Here is money for municipal lighting raised by taxation from property owners amounting to over $188,000.

To this is to be added interest on the investment of the funds, collected from all of us during these years, of $13,784. This carries the fund well over the $200,000 mark.

Of the gross amount of available funds made up of the collections and the interest from their investment by the city and amounting to $168,923.94 there had been expended on account of plant up to the 29th of last month some $163,764.82.

In other words, there was a balance on hand, to be drawn upon for the municipal plant's needs, of over $5,000 to be increased by the forthcoming payment of the last November's installment of 1907 taxes, amounting, as noted, to $10,000 and over.

There was, therefore, at the opening of 1909 over $15,000 available for the uses of the municipal lighting plant.

It remains to be seen just how much of this sum, levied and collected solely for public lighting, has since been frittered away on equipment and connections for PRIVATE LIGHTING to the NEGLECT of the STREET LIGHTING.

But assuming that most of the $15,000 is still in the city's treasury and that the May installment of 1908 taxes will increase the fund by some $12,000 more, it is safe to say that Fort Wayne practically has $25,000 available to begin

The Extension of Street

Illumination

By the time the street lighting of Fort Wayne is brought up to a creditable standard every dollar of the special fund coming from the taxes of 1909, of 1910 and 1911 will probably be needed.

In other words, we have a municipal generating plant equal to the city's present needs as to street lighting, with a safe emergency reserve; and we have a yearly accumulating fund which will start the extensions of the street lighting system and go far toward paying for the same.

Under these circumstances, why is not the most direct, common-sense, practical road to a Greater Fort Wayne the WELL LIGHTED ROAD?

IN THE CITY'S CHURCHES

PREPARATORY SERVICES ARE OF UNUSUAL INTEREST

Services at Bethel Evangelical Church Attract Large Congregations.

Great and growing interest is being manifested in the preparatory services at Bethel Evangelical church. A two weeks' revival will be inaugurated next Sunday by the pastor, Rev. E. Q. Laudeman, hence special services are being conducted this week to place the members in a receptive condition for the evangelistic campaign. The Sunday services began the preparation for the work. Services were held on Monday evening, this evening a second service will be held and there will also be another church service on Wednesday evening. After that it is not unlikely that a number of cottage prayer meetings will be arranged. At the service this evening the general topic will be "Winning the Boys and Girls for Christ." This topic will then be discussed in various phases. "Why They Should Be Won" will be explained by C. A. Augsperger and Mrs. E. L. Mertz; "How They May Be Won" will be treated by Miss Cora Kurrie; "The Preparation for Winning Them" will be exemplified by Rev. Laudeman and Mrs. J. H. Williams will speak on "Caring for Them When Won." At this service the Sunday school officers and teachers will actively participate. The officers and committee members of the Young People's alliance took part in the Monday evening service when the pastor spoke at length on "Bringing Others to Christ." There were several interesting discussions on this subject.

MISSIONARY VISITS CITY.

Rev. J. Melville Frazier, Presbyterian Church Worker in Africa.

After enjoying a year's furlough with relatives and friends in the United States, Rev. J. Melville Frazier, a zealous Presbyterian missionary, is en route to his post in the interior of Africa. On his trip to New York Rev. Frazier stopped over in Fort Wayne yesterday to spend a few hours with local friends. He has spent several years in Africa and has accomplished much good in his foreign field. After a trip of thirty-five days he will arrive at Hamburg and later will journey to the mission station in Africa. It requires six days' walking as there are no means of transportation. Rev. Frazier has formulated a hymn book in the Bulu language by means of writing the various sounds articulated by the natives, who are all colored, and is also engaged in a biblical translation for them.

REV. AND MRS. BOSCH HONORED.

Tenth Wedding Anniversary Was Happily Celebrated.

The tenth wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. John H. Bosch, of St. John's Reformed church, was the occasional of a very happy celebration on Monday evening. The celebration was planned by the congregation and came as a complete surprise to the pastor and his wife. About 8 o'clock upwards of five hundred people assembled in the church hall, the majority entering by the Webster street entrance, as the parsonage is located on Washington boulevard west. Rev. P. Ruhl, a local minister of the Reformed church, then called on Rev. and Mrs. Bosch with a request that they visit the hall. The reception tendered them was thoroughly enjoyable and a program appropriate to the occasion was given. Miss Pauline Werkmann sang an original song in compliment to the honored guests; several vocal selections were rendered by the choir and an original poem, written by Mrs. Minna Rippe, was read by Rev. Edward Kielsmeyer. A poem entitled "Our Wedding Day" was recited by Rev. Ruhl. Rev. B. Ruff, director of the Orphans' Home of the Reformed church, led in prayer and later made a presentation speech, whereupon a handsome kitchen cabinet and other useful and valuable gifts were tendered Rev. and Mrs. Bosch. They were deeply impressed and the former responded, thanking all who had so generously remembered them. An informal reception followed and later refreshments were served by the ladies in the church dining rooms. The tables were artistically decorated with plants and cut flowers and on each table was a large cake on which ten candles gleamed brightly.

REHEARSAL GREGORIAN CHANT.

This evening at the Library hall the young men of the parish will meet for a rehearsal of Gregorian chant. The vocalists are under the capable direction of Rev. Simon M. Yenn, chancellor, and also diocesan musical director. Father Yenn has made a special study of church music in general, Gregorian chant in particular and is eminently qualified for the work. It will be but a matter of a short time before a carefully trained choir of male voices only will be heard at the services in the Cathedral.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH REVIVAL.

Marked Interest in West Creighton Avenue Church Service.

The largest Monday evening audience since the opening of the revival at the West Creighton avenue Church of Christ, was present at the services last evening. The auditorium was well filled and marked interest was manifested in the work. The music for the service was excellent. This evening Rev. William P. Shamhart will preach on "The Man Between Opinions." Besides the work of the chorus choir, there will be instrumental trio of two cornets and one trombone played by Roy and Wilmer Shamhart, sons of the pastor and their guest, Russel Izor, of Indianapolis. Their work at the service on Monday evening was much admired. On Wednesday evening, Rev. Shamhart will present as his sermon topic "How to Join the Church, or What Leads Me Up to a Christian Life."

the fuse that connects with the hidden mine of discontent and dismay that is planted beneath this republic, and I shudder for the consequences.

To Point a Moral.

"I read a little story in a New York paper recently, illustrating aptly, I think, the recklessness and wanton disregard of the people's rights by the money power of the government. It is said that a beautiful Italian girl with considerable property, married one of her countrymen, believing that he was all that her young heart had pictured him to be. Soon she discovered that he was addicted to that terrible vice, the liquor habit. Their home soon became a drunkard's home, her property was squandered, poverty in all its hideous forms knocked at their door, until finally she was compelled to go out and earn a living for her drunken husband. She was finally brought into court and tried, and to the judge she said:

"Judge, he finally suggested that I sell myself for his support; he pressed me too far, judge, and I killed him."

"Ah, the money power of this government is treading upon dangerous ground. They do not know, or else they do not care, that the people are already ground down with taxation and the weight of government until their backs are almost broken beneath its load. They do not seem to appreciate the fact that in his power and strength 'Old Man People' may rise and smite them. I would not be an alarmist, sir, but I predict here and now that unless conditions change, that unless the congress of the United States turns a listening ear to the lamentations of an outraged public, that within ten years there may be another Shenandoah Valley, there may be another Gettysburg; the red broom of war may sweep this government as it has never been swept before, and when that day shall break in all its fury, woe to the crowd working the field of legislation that have laid these grievous burdens upon the backs of the crowd working the field of human endeavor."

Speaking of the "oligarchy of wealth" built by legislation and legislation alone, having reduced to almost serfdom the laborers of portions of the country, the senator continued:

"This is a dark picture. I know what the result may be. For the past twelve months the country has been regaled with an exhaustive and learned argument as to whether or not the president of the United States had the right to discharge a lot of kinky-headed niggers from the army, who, in a drunken riot, shot up a helpless and defenseless people. And more recently we have been urged to increase the salary of all our public officials that they might more closely imitate royalty."

"We stand today face to face with a deficit in our public treasury of $150,000,000. Our government is bankrupt, yet we are appropriating the money of the people at the rate of perhaps a million dollars an hour. The majority in congress seem to be drunk on the wine of success. They fiddle and dance and make merry while Rome burns. I say to you, Mr. President, that it is time we were calling a halt, and that the congress of the United States legislate for a little while in the interest of 'Old Man People.' He is a good old man, bowed and bent with years; venerable, with long, flowing beard. You have each met him. Simple and confident, trustful and hopeful, he looks to this congress for some relief, and I ask the senators here to lend an attentive ear to his demands before it is everlastingly too late."

Panic Made on Three Acres.

He declared that the panic of 1907 "was organized on less than three acres of ground in New York, where these two gigantic stock gambling institutions ply their wicked vocations." Denouncing the levying of a protective tariff he pictured New York city as a scene of poverty as proof that this tariff does not bring prosperity even to those who work in the shops of the protected interests.

"I asked you," he said, "to go, with me to the great cities and there inspect the great army of the unemployed as it marches with sober, grim, threatening men in full review; go with me to New York, if you please, stand with me on the Brooklyn bridge at the close of the day and see the great throng of humanity as it surges across that great thoroughfare; see the little children that ought to be in school or around their mother's knee coming grimy and dirty from the sweat-shops; see the poor mother with babe in her arms, who has been trudging the streets all day begging for bread, going to her hovel of squalid poverty and want; see the laboring men out of employment, with desperation written upon their faces returning empty-handed to their helpless, dependent families; go to the homes of the poor, go to the homes of the unemployed, go with this great army that is marching up and down the land today begging not for bread, not for a hand-out at your back door, but an opportunity to run the race of life freely, unshackled, and unhindered; and tell me, if you will, that this tax has brought blessings to the laboring man of the north and east.

Cites Arkansas Statute.

Mr. Davis said that while governor of Arkansas he had advanced a law which was finally enacted for the suppression of all dealings in futures purely within the state and the provisions of that act were practically similar to those proposed in his bill before the senate. In the latter measure the use of the postal system as well as of the telegraph and telephone was forbidden which he deemed a feasible way to put an end to such transactions. He spoke especially of the baneful effects of the sale of futures on the price of cotton, although his bill had reference to all products of the soil.

"God has blessed the southland as has no other portion of this great commonwealth," said Mr. Davis. "He has given us in soil and climate a corner on the production of this great staple, and it is to prevent the gambler from despoiling our agricultural people, not only of the south, but of the west as well, that I ask for the passage of this bill."

"The transaction on the New York exchange," he said, "involves speculation on ten times as much cotton as is actually produced in the south."

Is a Pure Gamble.

"The whole transaction," he said, "is a pure gamble, a bucket shop transaction of the worst kind, and no exchange should be lawfully empowered to continue this gambling game. This," he added, "is gambling in the flesh, in the blood and in the bones of women and children of the south who are forced by the robbery and spoliation of these gamblers to toil from daylight until dark to produce the subject matter of this gambling transaction."

These exchanges, he insisted, so completely fix the price of cotton, that the smallest farmer when he carries his product to market is told that the purchaser must consult the exchange before he buys it. When gambling in cotton is destroyed, he said, a better price could be obtained for the cotton of the south.

The 1,100 names of members of the New York Stock exchange was included in Mr. Davis' remarks. These men, he said, represent wealth aggregating $15,000,000,000 or about one-seventh of the wealth owned by the 90,000,000 people of the United States and in addition to that personal ownership, he added, they represent vast railway and commercial systems that add to their influence in the financial world.

Most children eat too much, overtax the digestion, get thin, weak, languid, stop growing—that's malnutrition or non-digestion of food.

Scott's Emulsion

has helped countless thousands in this condition. It is both nourishment and medicine—a most powerful aid to digestion.

TRACTION MEN MEET TO TALK OVER PLANS

Extension of Power Facilities and New Car Shops Up.

Col. J. Levering Jones, president of the Fort Wayne and Wabash Valley Traction company, arrived in the city at noon today, accompanied by John J. Collier, of Philadelphia, who is president of one of the largest financial institutions in the Quaker City, and they met General Manager C. D. Edmonds, Attorney James M. Barrett and Henry C. Paul and held a consultation during luncheon at the Anthony Wayne club.

Mr. Collier is largely interested in the traction company and is one of the directors of the company, and he and Mr. Jones are here for the purpose of considering extensions and improvements.

Plans are being drawn for a new power station that will either be erected here as an extension to the present plant or will be constructed at Lafayette. The location largely depends upon the demands of the company and its convenience.

Plans for immense car shops much after the kind erected at Anderson by the Indiana Union Traction company are being prepared, and the visit of the two officials of the company will deal largely with this proposition. Col. Jones stated that the time had arrived when the company needs the car shops, and the financial condition warrants the belief that the money can easily be obtained.

The two officials will remain in the city during the afternoon and evening and will make an inspection of the local plant. Mr. Collier will acquaint himself with conditions here and a trip of inspection over the entire system will probably be made.

SECRETARY BOUGHT BONDS.

Funds of the Police Pension Board Are Invested.

Secretary Ben Elliott, of the Police Pension board, today invested $1,000 in municipal improvement bonds. The fund has grown encouragingly in the last two years and when the election occurs next week the secretary will have an excellent report to make.

SALOON DIVES MUST CLEAN UP, SAYS CHIEF

Police Officers Called in and Given Their Instructions.

Two saloonkeepers whose places are not properly conducted will be put out of business immediately and a score of others must run their saloons on an entirely different plan or they too will go. This was determined upon at a meeting between Mayor W. J. Hosey, Chief of Police M. H. Ankenbruck and ten night and two day patrolmen this morning.

The patrolmen were called in to explain fully the conditions on their beats and were told what would be expected in future of the men under surveillance and in event there is not a reform the officers will be expected to file affidavits.

The two men who got the official ax this morning will not be closed up by the police, as they have good stands, but they are unfit to conduct saloons and they will be told they must sell out and in event they refuse their licenses will be suspended and they will have to show cause why they shall not be revoked. The mayor has this power.

The great trouble is that a lot of the dives in question harbor thieves and bums of all descriptions and many of them are so closely allied with the interests of street walkers that they are constantly stirring up trouble. The crusade is the outgrowth of the murder in the John B. Scott saloon.

"I'll tell you," said the chief today, "these fellows have got to run their places right up to the handle or they'll be closed up tighter than a drum. There'll be no half-way business about this thing. They've got to be right from now on or they close, that's all there is too it. We've been watching them up for some time and we know where we are now and they can all watch out from now on."

DOCTOR BURIED THE FOOT.

Had Intended to Secure a Specimen for His Study.

The foot found Monday north of the city was amputated at Hope hospital in October and formerly belonged to Henry Schwartz, of Paulding, Ohio. Dr. Ernest Kenny, an intern, took the foot with him to examine it and buried it until the flesh should have sloughed off. In the meantime a dog dug it up and John Usselman called the police. The information was secured by Deputy Sheriff Walter Immer.

SOCIETY

The first of two bridge parties which Mrs. Edward A. Barnes, of South Harrison street, is giving this week, was a social event of this afternoon which about forty ladies greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Llewellyn Harrison was the guest for whom the invitations for today were specially issued. The decorations were very pretty but not elaborate. Pink and white carnations mingled with plumose filled vases and jardinières and pink candles under pink shades lighted the card tables at supper. Mrs. C. S. Lewis, of Chicago, who is visiting Mrs. Jesse Greene, Miss Brownell, of Peru, who is the guest of Mrs. E. W. Averill, and Mrs. Krotz, of Defiance, were out of town guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bondurant were honor guests at a prettily appointed dinner party last evening, given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thieme, of Fairfield avenue. The guests were members of the Current Events club and the dinner was a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Bondurant who will leave shortly for Morocco, Ind., to make their home. The floral decorations of the table were Marguerites and plumose.

Mrs. J. C. Straughan who lives at the Hamilton house, entertained quite informally this afternoon, a number of ladies at a sewing party.

Mrs. William Breuer, of Washington boulevard east entertained ladies for six tables at five-hundred this afternoon. The affair was informal and the game was followed by a delicious supper.

The women trustees of the Allen County Orphans' home gave their annual winter picnic this noon at the home. A number of guests were invited, that being the custom at the picnic affairs, as the idea is to keep up interest in the institution. Every one invited who found it possible to accept the invitation did so, and the beautiful weather aided in making this particular picnic an occasion of much delight. The trustees furnished the menu and a number helped in the kitchen in preparing the luncheon for serving. The matron, Mrs. Ida Overmyer, extended a cordial welcome, and visitors who were not already familiar with the building and the younger inmates, took a tour of the rooms. At present there are sixty-five children in the home. The luncheon itself was bounteous and substantial, and over forty ladies were present.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Thompson have returned from a visit in Georgia.

Ralph Lane, of Cincinnati, is visiting his father, Prof. C. T. Lane, for a few days.

The Winter Picnic club will be entertained at luncheon tomorrow by Mrs. A. H. Perfect.

Mrs. Persifer C. Smith and children, of Columbus, Ohio, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rockhill.

Mrs. W. E. Mossman is in Cleveland, visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Jacobs for a few days.

Mrs. H. H. Hartwig and Mrs. John B. Reuss are planning to leave within a few days for a trip to Martinsville, Ind.

Mrs. Henrietta Hull, of 2317 Winter street, will entertain the Yeoman Aid society tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Brown left today for a four months' trip to the Pacific coast. They will visit Washington, Oregon and California.

Mrs. Joseph Rossell entertained a few ladies and gentlemen at dinner on Saturday evening at her home in West Berry street. Covers were laid for ten.

Miss Julia Donohue, of New York, is the guest of the Misses Meyer, of Harrison street, for a few days. To

Charm the Fat Away

To reduce by means of exercise or dieting is nothing but torture to the flesh and mortification to the spirit. It is so much simpler to "charm" it away. Of course, I don't mean by "spells" or "incantations" but through the occasional use of this home receipt, viz: ½ ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3½ ounces Peppermint. Water, which any one can obtain at any drug store for a small sum and mix at home. Take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime. It literally charms the fat away. Takes it off just where you need it off and does it quickly but harmlessly. Many persons lose as much as a pound a day.

Isn't that "charming" off the fat—eat what you please and still lose a pound a day—without strain, injury or effort?

Mutton Broth

One pound lean, juicy mutton chopped fine and one pint cold water. Let stand half an hour, then heat slowly and simmer half an hour. Strain, season and thicken with a little rice flour stirred smooth in cold water. Serve very hot. If little globules of fat appear on the surface of the broth they can be removed with a bit of soft tissue paper.

Egg Nog

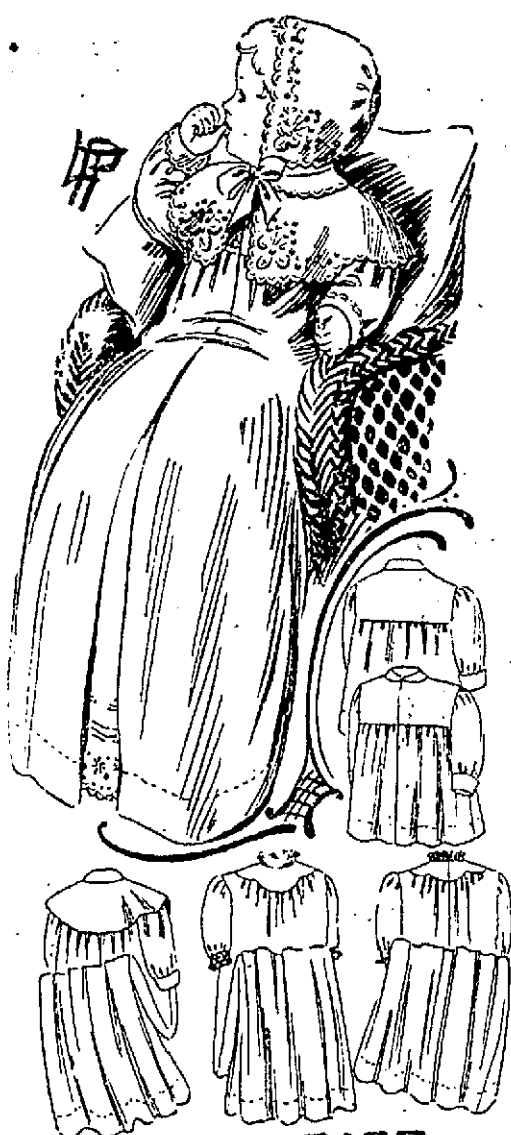

Beat the yoke of an egg light, add a cup of new milk. When well mixed stir in the stiffly whipped white of an egg, a spoonful at a time. A teaspoonful sugar may be beaten in with the yolk if preferred, and a grating of nutmeg added for seasoning.

Chicken Broth

Clean and cut up a fowl into inch pieces, removing all fat. Break the bones. Cover all with cold water, heat slowly and simmer gently until the meat is tender. Strain, cool, and remove any remaining fat. When needed reheat and season with salt and pepper. If you wish to use it as a jelly, clear by cooling with the white of an egg for five minutes, then skim well. Strain into cups to chill and mould.

Dainty Set for Infant

(By Mrs. Jane Ford.)

441 ONE SIZE FOR CHILD

Infants' clothes are always attractive if fashioned from pretty materials, and the pattern for the set illustrated, which includes a long or short coat, a yoke dress and a cap, cut in one size, is especially effective and may be used for children under one year of age. To copy the coat two and seven-eighths yards of material thirty-six inches wide, or one and seven-eighths yards fifty-four inches wide are needed. If the coat is made in short length, as represented in the small view, one and one-half yards of goods twenty-seven inches wide, or five-eighths of a yard fifty-four inches wide, will be sufficient.

To duplicate the little dress three and one-half yards of goods twenty-seven inches wide, or two and one-half yards thirty-six inches wide, are required. To make the cap one-half yard of material twenty-four inches wide will be needed, with one-quarter of a yard of silk twenty inches wide for lining.

When it is possible clothes for small children should be white, for not only are they more appropriate, but they can be laundered more satisfactorily.

For the dress any lightweight soft cotton weave that does not require starching may be used. Cambric, nainsook, batiste, lawn and long cloth in the finer grades will give satisfaction.

The yoke may be the material, finished with a little hand embroidery and the edge feather stitched, or it can be cut from all-over lace or Swiss embroidery.

The coat should be of cashmere, henrietta or fine flannel. If the little collar and cape are finished with a buttonhole scalloped edge, the appearance of the garment will be improved.

A dainty spray of leaves and flowers might be worked in self colors on the front corners of the cape and at the center back.

When preferred, the cap may be of fabric like the coat. In this case the edges should be scalloped and the front corners embroidered to match the wrap. When sheer materials, such as linen, are selected, the cap may be ornamented with drawn work, embroidery or fine lace insertion. A cap of this character would require a quilted silk lining if intended for winter wear.

piece, having secured from the Schurberts the right to play it here. Filled with exciting situations and laughs aplenty, the stage version of the story is said to be unapologetically funny; in fact, hundreds of Fort Wayne theatergoers who saw the production of the piece at the Majestic two seasons ago will remember this to be a fact. The play, opening with tomorrow's matinee, will be continued, afternoon and evening, to Saturday, inclusive.

At the Temple.

This week's vaudeville bill was witnessed by audiences that filled the theater yesterday. The big act is the Pekin zouaves, of whom there are thirteen young men. Their act is sensational and they do a drill with lightning like rapidity and a precision that never falters. Their wall scaling calls forth the wonder of all, even those most accustomed to startling features from acrobats. The opening performance is stronger than usual this week. It is a contortion and acrobatic performance by DeMarr and Bell, the fisherman and the frog. Eddie Coe is funnier than ever as a negro Scotchman, a la Harry Lawder whose stunts in New York were the envy of all others. So much of a "go" is Eddie Coe that audiences yesterday came near refusing to let him off the stage at all. Murray Hill with a funny act of "Yap Center" is another laugh-maker of the week. Pearl Allen and her dancing jockies, McGarry and McCarthy, give a pretty act and Miss Allen knows how to sing and how to look pretty. The Rialto quartet, one woman and three men, have a happy selection of songs and there is Miss Ida Schnee and the Temple moving pictures to complete the treat.

Cuba's New Statue of Liberty

CUBA'S NEW STATUE OF LIBERTY TO BE UNVEILED AT MATANZAS, FEB. 24TH

New York, Jan. 26.—Cuba is to have a Statue of Liberty at Matanzas. Salvatore Buemi, of Rome, an Italian sculptor, who executed the figure, which will stand in a public park facing the harbor, arrived in New York Monday and will leave next Saturday for Matanzas to arrange for the dedication of the monument on February 24. Signor Buemi has been at work on the statue for more than two years and will take an important part in the dedication ceremonies.

In addition to the bronze figure representing Liberty, which will rest on a granite pedestal, the bronze image of Jose Marti will form a part of the same monument, which is being erected by a popular subscription. The statue will stand twelve feet high and will be at the foot of the Marti monument, which will rest on a higher pedestal.

Signor Buemi was born in Messina, but has not visited his native city since the recent earthquake. He said that he designed and executed the work for a statue in the public gardens of Messina erected to the memory of Sicilian soldiers who perished in battle.

Company Must Remove Wooden Poles From Improved Streets.

Notice has been sent to the Fort Wayne and Wabash Valley Traction company by the board of public works that all wooden trolley poles must be removed at once from paved streets. This action was determined upon at the meeting yesterday afternoon.

Plans were ordered prepared for the construction of sidewalks on Illinois street, from Watkins street to Perry avenue, upon the petition of six property owners on that thoroughfare. Plans were also ordered for the construction of a sewer in the alley east of Thompson avenue.

The excavation under the sidewalks and streets for the construction of area ways also came up for an airing, and the board granted permission for the work to proceed at the Schoff building with the understanding that a bond of $500 be furnished as a protection against the city suffering any loss through damage to the streets.

Story Corner for Base Ball Fans

Dayton is the home of a ball player who once beat Ty Cobb. Detroit Tiger leading hitter for two seasons and best running sensation of the American league, out of a job.

The player is Tommy Smith, left-hander, who played the outfield for the Shills in the K. I. O. league last season.

Four years ago Smith was a better ball player than Cobb. Now the latter is considered one of the greatest ball players that ever put on a pair of spiked shoes; his picture appears in some big league paper almost every day, and he draws a salary of something like $4,000 a season. Smith is working at the N. C. R. factory, and next season will captain Harry Hickins' Shills aggregation.

It was in the spring of 1925 that Tommy Smith left Dayton for Augusta, Ga., to try for a job on the team of that city in the South Atlantic league. His work in amateur and semi-pro circles entitled him to a trial in professional ball, and he was conceded to be one of the best fly-catchers and hitting players in semi-pro circles in this part of the country. He went south encouraged by his friends, well content and full of confidence.

When Smith reported to Andy Roth, the old catcher, for practice in August, he learned that he was not only player to be tried out for left field. The other player after the job was a youngster, too, and had no more back of him than Smith—a good record in semi-pro ranks. Smith was confident the young fellow did not know anything in ball, and he jumped into the practice work with a determination to land that left field job for the season regardless of what became of the other fellow.

When time for the season to start rolled around Smith was picked for the left field job in preference to Manager Roth considered him the better of the two contestants. Cobb was assigned to the bench as the other outfield positions were filled. Cobb was not long on the bench, however, for a man picked for right field fell down on the job and Cobb was assigned to fill in there.

Smith played left field all season and Cobb hung onto the right field job. But Smith had put the southerner out of the picture for the left field job. He had been picked as the best ball player and might have sent Cobb back to his home town, Royston, Ga., or to some smaller league than the South Atlantic had it not been for the failure of the right fielder to make good.

Cobb went back to Augusta the following season, 1926, and there was when the Detroit Tigers, under the management of Bill Armour, trained on the Augusta team grounds. Smith did not play professional ball that year. Armour hadn't seen Cobb in many performances before he picked him out as a natural ball player and tipped him as a coming star.

Armour went to the owners of the Detroit club and told them he wanted to buy Cobb. The owners could not see it that way. They had a bunch of youngsters on the roster at the time and to them Cobb did not look any better than some of the players they already had trying for jobs. But Bill Armour, with an ability to judge young ball players that probably is not excelled, was determined to get Cobb. When he was unable to convince the owners that they should pick up the young Georgian, he went down into his own pockets for the purchase money, paying out several hundred dollars for Cobb.

Armour's tip that Cobb was a natural ball player and bound to be a star came true. During the season of 1926 Cobb did not break into many games, but in 1927 he was in from the start. He set the league on fire with his work on the bases and finished the season at the top of the list of batters, beating out such clouters as George Stone, Larry Lajole and some of the other older men. Cobb's work went a long way toward landing the first pennant Detroit had seen in twenty years. The next season, 1928, Cobb repeated, again leading the hitters and accomplishing great things on the bases.

And while all this was going on Tommy Smith, who had beaten Cobb, dropped from professional ball, landed a good job and settled down to married life. He is content to play Sunday ball with the Shills and be at home.

PRISON BARS STARE BOOKIES IN THE FACE

Seven Months and $350 Fine Given Men by New Orleans Judge.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 26.—Winter racing in New Orleans was handed one of its periodic knockout blows yesterday when two men were fined $350 each and sent to the parish prison for a term of seven months for alleged bookmaking at the City park track. It was the first time since the present crusade to uphold the Locke law began that anyone has been shut back of the bars, and the case finished the race track so far as the lower courts are concerned, although the fight will be carried to the upper courts.

The men whose trial ended were Maude Frigeto and R. M. Sheffield, who were charged with operating a book at the City park track during the recent test race there. Only one race was run on the day in question, and the "sport" was programmed purely as a test of the Locke law, which prohibits bookmaking in the state of Louisiana.

The case has been before Judge Chretien for some time, and sentences were passed yesterday, when each man was given seven months and fined $350. Counsel for the defendants immediately made a motion for a new trial, but were overruled. They announced as soon as the motion was denied that an appeal to the supreme court of this state would be made at once.

The final disposition of the case so far as the local courts are concerned was unexpected. A light fine had been looked for, but no one expected the men to be sentenced to jail. It will practically put a stop to all further plans for racing in and around New Orleans this winter, and speeded defeat for the track across the river, although the betting system in vogue over there is not the same as that which the test case was based on at the City park.

The suburban track suffered a defeat right at the start yesterday when the court overruled the contention of the defense that District Attorney Adams of the parish of New Orleans had no right to prosecute the case, which originated in Jefferson parish. It was the contention that L. H. Merriero, Jr., should be the prosecuting attorney. The men on trial were Jack Sheehan and W. E. Ralston, who were arrested last Friday at the suburban track at the junction of the track authorities in order to test the "walking" system of betting. The day was spent in arguments mostly on technicalities.

In the meantime there will be no racing at the half-mile merry-go-round, as the promoters do not want to make it too strong while the case is in the courts. It is contended by those back of the defense that the Locke law does not cover the system of betting there, but a rude awakening was predicted by many when the result of the City park case was made known.

NEW MAN ASKS CHANCE.

Ferd Ring Wants to Be One of the Hot-tenters.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 26.—A husky youth strode into ball headquarters late Sunday night and asked Louie Smith, a chance to show what he could do when it came to camping in the out-pastures. Smith looked him over, saw his powerful physique, his bright snapping eye and inquired his name.

"Ferd Ring, of Jackson Hill, Ind.," was the reply.

Louie has an awful big bunch of aspirants for the outfield, but at that, he told Ring to show up in the spring and if he could show a Central league caliber he would be given a thorough tryout.

This fellow Ring is one of the fastest semi-professional outfielders in this neck of the woods. He played on the Jackson and performed in a creditable manner. He is a pretty good stickler for a youngster, but it is in his fielding position that he shines especially. He is fast, very fast, both in the field and on the paths, he probably having stolen more bases last year than any player in the semi-pro world in Indiana.

Ring likes to play in the center section, although he can cover either extreme. Outside of this excitement there was nothing doing around the joint where the ball players get their money in the playing season.

Miss Helen Lauer, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lauer, submitted to an operation at the St. Joseph hospital this afternoon for throat trouble.

Will Return to Fort Wayne Club

HARRY CORNS.

LEFT HANDER TURNS OUT TO BE HARRY CORNS

Varnell Makes Good His Promise to Secure a Good Man.

The experienced left-hander promised to the Fort Wayne public by Owner Claude H. Varnell turns out to be Harry Corns, drafted from the local club at the close of last season by Detroit. Mr. Varnell has announced his purchase from the Tigers and now the pitching staff of the club for next season numbers an even dozen.

Several weeks ago the Fort Wayne owner stated that he had negotiations on for a pitcher of the port side brand who would be pleasing to the patrons of the game here, but did not divulge the name at the time for fear it might interfere with the deal that was pending. Yesterday the purchase was made.

Harry Corns had an attack of typhoid fever near the end of last season and was relieved of duty before the schedule closed. He went to his home in Nebraska and recovered after a long absence but it was known some time ago that he would not use him. There was the possibility, however, that some other American league team might claim him by refusing to waive claim to his services and for this reason negotiations were carried on quietly.

Durline, one of the season Corns was required to do more work than was good for him and this told on his pitching. Then the disease that finally disabled him began to show and he was under a handicap that prevented him from demonstrating his worth.

This purchase is in all probability the most popular so far made by the management. Harry Corns was a favorite with the ball public last summer. He was always in condition, always willing to work and always gave the club the benefit of his best services. His conduct off and on the field was excellent and his return will be welcomed.

His batting was a great feature of his work last season and any time he wants to abandon the box for the outfield he can make the change. In forty-seven games he hit .316 and his work in the field when he was called upon to play was high-class.

It's a safe bet that he will be a member of the regular staff. He stands so well with the management that overtures were made for his return before the ink was dry on the draft and the persistence of Mr. Varnell finally landed him.

SCHRECK STARTS IN BACKWARD TRIP BY SALE

Old Catcher Has Been Sold by White Sox to Columbus.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 26.—"Ossie" Schreck, substitute catcher of the White Sox, has been sold to the Columbus team of the American association. The deal had been hanging fire for some days. This marks the passing of another veteran player to the minors.

Schreck, as he has been known for years, has been in the game for years. When Catcher Billy Sullivan was injured last fall Comiskey purchased him from Manager Conick Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics to help out. The Athletics were here at the time, and the deal went through in a few minutes. He played in few games with the Sox.

For years Schreck was a star of the Athletics, being a side partner of "Rube" Waddell. When ever "Rube" pitched he always wanted "Ossie" to do the back-stopping for him. And Schreck always did his famous one-handed stunts with Waddell flinging. When "Rube" went to St. Louis Schreck's heart was broken, and he was never quite the same behind the bat.

Schreck played with several teams before joining the Athletics, being with Cleveland for awhile. But he struck his gait at Philadelphia, developing into quite a batting hero. He was popular in the Quaker town.

MARRIED MEN FIGHT WARM BOWLING BATTLE

Marquettes Chase Them Hard for Two Games of Series.

In one of the hottest bowling battles that has marked the season at St. Mary's, the Married Men trimmed the Marquettes in three games last night, taking the first by one pin, the second by half a dozen, and romping away with a victory in the third.

Both teams were on their mettle and some excellent bowling was done in the three games. J. Koehs was the high man with his score of 214 in the second game, while C. Parrot ran him a hard race, scoring one over a double century. The scores follow:

CHANCE SAYS IT'S A TOSS-UP.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 26.—Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago Cubs, declares the differences between himself and President Murphy are simply concerning the management of the team. Chance said last night that he had not made any agreement to return to Chicago.

In his own words, "It is a toss-up whether I go east or stay in California where I have bought a fine ranch home." Continuing, Chance said: "I want control of my team on and off the field, and Murphy opposes this. If he does not concede me this privilege, I will not return."

If I am given the position of manager and he intends to divide the managerial duties with me, I will not return.

"There has been no correspondence of a business nature between us, although we have exchanged friendly letters. It is up to Mr. Murphy."

Chance has given up his position with a bookmaker at the Santa Anita racetrack and is at his home in Ocean Park.

Esquimaux Boy, First to Take College Course, Will Seek North Pole

Mene Keesho, Brought Here by Peary in 1895, Will Begin Studies Under Christian Brothers.

New York, Jan. 25.—"Who is better able to explore the frozen North and possibly discover the North Pole than an Eskimau?" was the logic put forth today by Mene Keesho, sole survivor of a band of Esquimaux brought here by Commander Peary in 1895, when later viewed as to his proposal to acquire an education in Manhattan college, fitting himself principally in navigation and engineering, and then setting forth on a voyage of discovery far beyond the leeches and polar bears among which he was born about eighteen years ago.

Mene Keesho, who had the name of Wallace when William Wallace, director of the American Museum of Natural History, became his guardian after the other members of his family died within a year or so after arriving here, scoffs at the methods employed by the world's famous explorers in attempting to find the North Pole.

"They fit out nice, comfortable ships," explains Mene, "take along a number of useless passengers to eat up their provisions and sail as far north as they can in one summer and passively wait until they are frozen in. Then they wait away a winter eating up their provisions until summer comes again, when they make a so-called dash, in which they sometimes cover as much as a mile a day, going as far as they can in half the summer. The other half of the summer is taken in beating it back to their ship before the Arctic waters freeze too severe. Then they return to the United States in a blaze of glory, announce that the pole is to be discovered not yet, but soon, and start out on a long and profitable lecture tour, telling why they failed and how they will surely succeed next time."

Mene Keesho would alter all this. He would recruit his exploring party from among his own tribe of Esquimaux, men inured to the hardships of the frozen north, who could live and thrive on whale blubber and other scant delicacies of the none too fertile Arctic circle.

In order to fit himself properly to command such an expedition Mene has a long, hard grind of study before him. He will enter the preparatory department of Manhattan college on February 1, and after four years there will enter the college, where another four years will turn him out a first-class engineer, able to take up navigation and prepare maps and surveys of the country he explores.

BUSINESS NECESSITY demands that a diseased condition of the body must be eliminated in order to successfully meet the strenuous requirements of active competition.

A BROKEN DOWN BODY is certain to bring about a disturbance of the nervous system, a NERVOUS BREAKDOWN, which in turn becomes an effective barrier to success. NO MAN CAN AFFORD TO RUN THE RISK OF FAILURE BECAUSE OF BEING HANDICAPPED BY DISEASE.

YEARS OF EXPERIENCE in the treatment of PELVIC, NERVOUS AND CHRONIC DISEASES has enabled me to perfect my methods which will not only perfectly and permanently CURE these diseases but will restore to a normal and healthy condition, the broken down and devitalized nervous system.

Hundreds of satisfied patients have testified to my ability to cure these CHRONIC and deep seated diseases in which the ordinary methods have failed.

If you give me one-half the chance with your case, I will give you the cure you have paid others for.

LIFE IS A STRUGGLE AT BEST, so why delay this opportunity to get well? I say, can you afford to miss all the happiness that comes from having a sound body for the sake of a few dollars? You know you cannot. Every day wasted is forever lost.

SOCIETY

The first of two bridge parties which Mrs. Edward A. Barnes, of South Harrison street, is giving this week, was a social event of this afternoon which about forty ladies greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Llewellyn Harrison was the guest for whom the invitations for today were specially issued. The decorations were very pretty but not elaborate. Pink and white carnations mingled with plumed vases and jardinières and pink candles under pink shades lighted the card tables at supper. Mrs. C. S. Lewis, of Chicago, who is visiting Mrs. Jesse Greene, Miss Brownell, of Peru, who is the guest of Mrs. E. W. Averill, and Mrs. Krotz, of Defiance, were out of town guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bondurant were honor guests at a prettily appointed dinner party last evening, given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thelme, of Fairfield avenue. The guests were members of the Current Events club and the dinner was a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Bondurant who will leave shortly for Morocco, Ind., to make their home. The floral decorations of the table were Marguerites and plumosus.

Mrs. J. C. Straghan who lives at the Hamilton house, entertained quite informally this afternoon, a number of ladies at a sewing party.

Mrs. William Breuer, of Washington boulevard east entertained ladies for six tables at five hundred this afternoon. The affair was informal and the game was followed by a delicious supper.

The women trustees of the Allen County Orphans' home gave their annual winter picnic this noon at the home. A number of guests were invited, that being the custom at the picnic affairs, as the idea is to keep up interest in the institution. Everyone invited who found it possible to accept the invitation did so, and the beautiful weather aided in making this particular picnic an occasion of much delight. The trustees furnished the menu and a number helped in the kitchen in preparing the luncheon for serving. The matron, Mrs. Ida Overmyer, extended a cordial welcome, and visitors who were not already familiar with the building and the younger inmates, took a tour of the rooms. At present there are sixty-five children in the home. The luncheon itself was bounteous and substantial, and over forty ladies were present.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Thompson have returned from a visit in Georgia.

Ralph Lane, of Cincinnati, is visiting his father, Prof. C. T. Lane, for a few days.

The Winter Picnic club will be entertained at luncheon tomorrow by Mrs. A. H. Perfect.

Mrs. Persifer C. Smith and children, of Columbus, Ohio, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rockhill.

Mrs. W. E. Mossman is in Cleveland, visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Jacobs for a few days.

Mrs. H. H. Hartwig and Mrs. John B. Reuss are planning to leave within a few days for a trip to Martinsville, Ind.

Mrs. Henrietta Hull, of 2317 Winter street, will entertain the Yeoman Aid society tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Brown left today for a four months' trip to the Pacific coast. They will visit Washington, Oregon and California.

Mrs. Joseph Rossell entertained a few ladies and gentlemen at dinner on Saturday evening at her home in West Berry street. Covers were laid for ten.

Miss Julia Donohue, of New York, is the guest of the Misses Meyer, of Harrison street, for a few days. To

Charm the Fat Away

To reduce by means of exercise or dieting is nothing but torture to the flesh and mortification to the spirit. It is so much simpler to "charm" it away. Of course, I don't mean by "spells" or "incantations" but through the occasional use of this home receipt, viz: 1/2 ounce Marmola, 1/2 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara, 1/2 ounce and 3/4 ounces Peppermint Water, which any one can obtain at any drug store for a small sum and mix at home. Take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime. It literally charms the fat away. Takes it off just where you need it off and does it quickly but harmlessly. Many persons lose as much as a pound a day.

Don't that "charming" off the fat—eat what you please and still lose a pound a day—without strain, injury or effort?

Mutton Broth

One pound lean, juicy mutton chopped fine and one pint cold water. Let stand half an hour, then heat slowly and simmer half an hour. Strain, season and thicken with a little rice flour stirred smooth in cold water. Serve very hot. If little globules of fat appear on the surface of the broth they can be removed with a bit of soft tissue paper.

Egg Nog

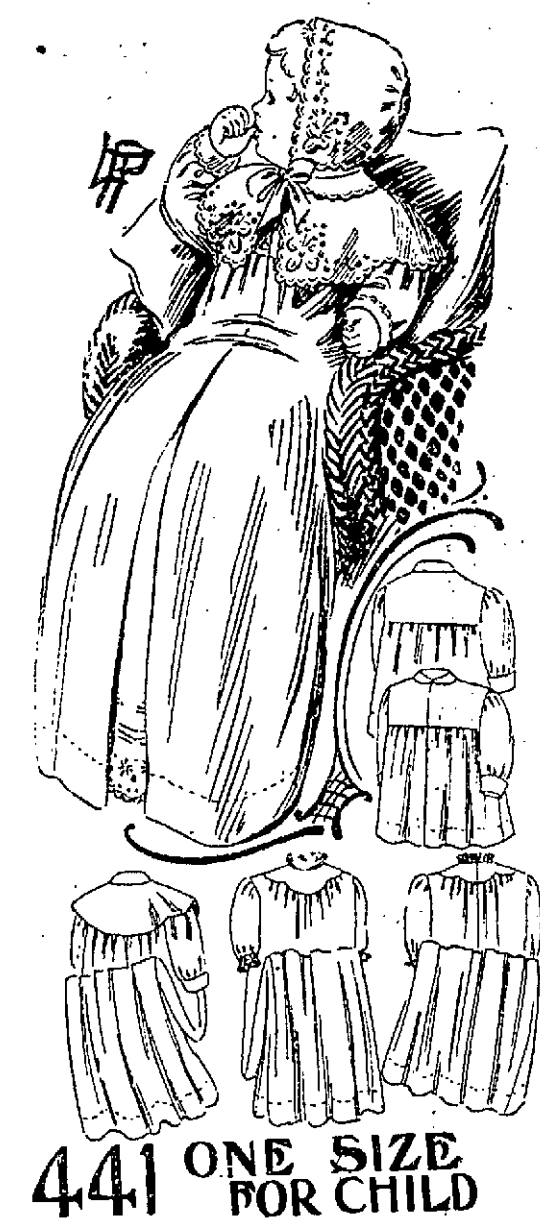

Beat the yoke of an egg light, add a cup of new milk. When well mixed stir in the stiffly whipped white of an egg, a spoonful at a time. A teaspoonful sugar may be beaten in with the yolk if preferred, and a grating of nutmeg added for seasoning.

Chicken Broth

Clean and cut up a fowl into inch pieces, removing all fat. Break the bones. Cover all with cold water, heat slowly and simmer gently until the meat is tender. Strain, cool, and remove any remaining fat. When needed reheat and season with salt and pepper. If you wish to use it as a jelly, clear by cooking with the white of an egg for five minutes, then skim well. Strain into cups to chill and mould.

Dainty Set for Infant

(By Mrs. Jane Ford.)

441 ONE SIZE FOR CHILD

Infants' clothes are always attractive if fashioned from pretty materials, and the pattern for the set illustrated, which includes a long or short coat, a yoke dress and a cap, cut in one size, is especially effective and may be used for children under one year of age. To copy the coat two and seven-eighths yards of material thirty-six inches wide, or one and seven-eighths yards fifty-four inches wide are needed. If the coat is made in short length, as represented in the small view, one and one-half yards of goods twenty-seven inches wide, or five-eighths of a yard fifty-four inches wide, will be sufficient.

To duplicate the little dress three and one-half yards of goods twenty-seven inches wide, or two and one-half yards thirty-six inches wide, are required. To make the cap one-half yard of material twenty-four inches wide will be needed, with one-quarter of a yard of silk twenty inches wide for lining.

When it is possible clothes for small children should be white, for not only are they more appropriate, but they can be laundered more satisfactorily.

For the dress any lightweight soft cotton weave that does not require starching may be used. Cambric, nainsook, batiste, lawn and long cloth in the finer grades will give satisfaction.

The yoke may be the material, finished with a little hand embroidery and the edge feather stitched, or it can be cut from all-over lace or Swiss embroidery.

The coat should be of cashmere, henrietta or fine flannel. If the little collar and cape are finished with a buttonhole scalloped edge, the appearance of the garment will be improved.

A dainty spray of leaves and flowers might be worked in felt colors on the front corners of the cape and at the center back.

When preferred, the cap may be of fabric like the coat. In this case the edges should be scalloped and the front corners embroidered to match the wrap. When sheer materials, such as linen, are selected, the cap may be ornamented with drawn work, embroidery or fine lace insertion. A cap of this character would require a quilted silk lining if intended for winter wear.

pieces, having secured from the Schuberts the right to play it here. Filled with exciting situations and laughs aplenty, the stage version of the story is said to be uproariously funny; in fact, hundreds of Fort Wayne theatergoers who saw the production of the piece at the Majestic two seasons ago will remember this to be a fact. The play, opening with tomorrow's matinee, will be continued, afternoon and evening, to Saturday, inclusive.

At the Temple.

This week's vaudeville bill was witnessed by audiences that filled the theater yesterday. The big act is the Pekin zouaves, of whom there are thirteen young men. Their act is sensational and they do a drill with lightning like rapidity and a precision that never falters. Their wall scaling calls forth the wonder of all, even those most accustomed to startling features from acrobats. The opening performance is stronger than usual this week. It is a contortion and acrobatic performance by DeMarrion and Bell, the fisherman and the frog. Eddie Coe is funnier than ever as a negro Scotchman, a la Harry Lander whose stunts in New York were the envy of all others. So much of a "go" is Eddie Coe that audiences yesterday came near refusing to let him off the stage at all. Murray Hill with a funny act of "Tap Center" is another laugh-maker of the week. Pearl Allen and her dancing jockies, McGarry and McCarthy, give a pretty act and Miss Allen knows how to sing and how to look pretty. The Rialto quartet, one woman and three men, have a happy selection of songs and there is Miss Iida Schnee and the Temple moving pictures to complete the treat.

Cuba's New Statue of Liberty

CUBA'S NEW STATUE OF LIBERTY TO BE UNVEILED AT MATANZAS, FEB. 24TH

New York, Jan. 26.—Cuba is to have a Statue of Liberty at Matanzas. Salvatore Buemi, of Rome, an Italian sculptor, who executed the figure, which will stand in a public park facing the harbor, arrived in New York Monday and will leave next Saturday for Matanzas to arrange for the dedication of the monument on February 24. Signor Buemi has been at work on the statue for more than two years and will take an important part in the dedication ceremonies.

In addition to the bronze figure representing Liberty, which will rest on a granite pedestal, the bronze image of Jose Marti will form a part of the same monument, which is being erected by a popular subscription. The liberty statue will stand twelve feet high and will be at the foot of the Marti monument, which will rest on a higher pedestal.

Signor Buemi was born in Messina, but has not visited his native city since the recent earthquake. He said that he designed and executed the work for a statue in the public gardens of Messina erected to the memory of Sicilian soldiers who perished in battle.

Company Must Remove Wooden Poles From Improved Streets.

Notice has been sent to the Fort Wayne and Wabash Valley Traction company by the board of public works that all wooden trolley poles must be removed at once from paved streets. This action was determined upon at the meeting yesterday afternoon.

Plans were ordered prepared for the construction of sidewalks on Illinois street, from Watkins street to Perry avenue, upon the petition of six property owners on that thoroughfare. Plans were also ordered for the construction of a sewer in the alley east of Thompson avenue.

The excavation under the sidewalks and streets for the construction of area ways also came up for an airing, and the board granted permission for the work to proceed at the Shoaff building with the understanding that a bond of $500 be furnished as a protection against the city suffering any loss through damage to the streets.

NIGHT RIDER ON TRIAL.

Defendant in Union City Case is Placed on Stand.

Union City, Tenn., Jan. 26.—The Marshall night rider trial was resumed this morning with the defendant on the stand.

The prosecution is attempting to show that the confession of Ben McMurry, who on the stand yesterday acknowledged he perjured himself in the first trial when he testified to Marshall's whereabouts on the night of the murder, would have been an alibi, and that witnesses had been summoned for that purpose.

The witness was closely questioned along this line but he denied any knowledge, whatever, of what McMurry intended testifying.

Story Corner for Base Ball Fans

Dayton is the home of a ball player who once hit a home run, Detroit Tiger, leading hitter for two seasons, the best running sensation of the American league, out of a job.

The player is Tommy Smith, left-hander, who played the outfield for the Athletics in the K. T. O. league last season.

Four years ago Smith was a better ball player than Cobb. Now the southerner is considered one of the greatest ball players that ever put on a pair of spiked shoes; his picture appears in some big league paper almost every day, and he draws a salary of something like $4,000 a season. Smith is working at the N. C. R. factory, that next season will captain Harry Huggins' Shiloh aggregation.

It was in the spring of 1925 that Tommy Smith left Dayton for Augusta, Ga., to try for a job on the team of that city in the South Atlantic league. His work in amateur and semi-pro circles entitled him to a trial in professional ranks. Tommy was conceded to be the greatest ball player-chasing and hitting player in semi-pro circles in this part of the country. He went south encouraged by his friends, well-touted and full of confidence.

When Smith reported to Andy Roth, the old pitcher, for practice in Augusta, he learned that he was the better of two players to be tried out for left field. The other player after the job was a youngster, too, and had no more back of him than Smith—a good record in semi-pro ranks. Smith was confident the young fellow did not have anything on him and he jumped into the game with a determination to land that left field job for the season regardless of what became of the other fellow.

When time for the season to start rolled around Smith was picked for the left field job, evidence that Manager Roth considered him the better of two contestants. Cobb was assigned to the bench as the other outfield positions were filled. Cobb was not long on the bench, however, for a man picked for right field fell down on the job and Cobb was allowed to fill in there.

Smith played left field all season and Cobb hung onto the right field job. But

PRISON BARS STARE BOOKIES IN THE FACE

Seven Months and $350 Fine Given Men by New Orleans Judge.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 26.—Winter racing in New Orleans was handed one of its periodic knockout blows yesterday when two men were fined $350 each and sent to the parish prison for a term of seven months for alleged bookmaking at the City park track. It was the first time since the present crusade to uphold the Locke law began that anyone has been shut out of the bars, and the case finished the race track so far as the lower courts are concerned, although the fight will be carried to the upper courts.

The men whose trial ended were Placide Edgerly and R. M. Sheffield, who were charged with operating a book at the City park track during the recent test race there. Only one race was run on the day in question, and the "sport" was pronounced purely as a test of the Locke law, which prohibits bookmaking in the state of Louisiana.

The case has been before Judge Chretien for some time, and sentences were passed yesterday, when each man was given seven months and fined $250. Counsel for the defendants immediately made a motion for a new trial, but were overruled. They announced as soon as the motion was denied that an appeal to the supreme court of this state would be made at once.

The final disposition of the case so far as the local courts are concerned was unexpected. A light line had been looked for, but no one expected the men to be sentenced to jail. It will practically put a stop to all further plans for racing in and around New Orleans this winter, and spells defeat for the track across the city, although the betting system in vogue over there is not the same as that which the test case was based on at the City park.

The suburban track suffered a defeat right at the start yesterday when the court overruled the contention of the defense that District Attorney Adams of the parish of New Orleans has no right to prosecute the cases, which originated in Jefferson parish. It was the contention that L. H. Merriero, Jr., should be the prosecuting attorney. The men on trial were Jack Sheehan and W. E. Ralston, who were arrested last Friday at the suburban track at the instigation of the track authorities in order to test the "wedding" system of betting. The day was spent in arguments mostly on technicalities.

In the meantime there will be no racing at the half-mile merry-go-round, as the promoters do not want to make it too strong while the case is in the courts. It is contended by the track across the defense that the Locke law does not cover the system of betting there, but a rider awakening was predicted by many when the result of the City park case was made known.

NEW MAN ASKS CHANCE.
Ferd Ring Wants to Be One of the Hot-tents.

Terro Haute, Ind., Jan. 26.—A husky youth strode into ball headquarters late Sunday night and asked Louis Smith for a chance to show what he could do when it came to coming in the out pastures. Smith looked him over, saw his powerful physique, his bright snapping eye and inquired his name.

"Ferd Ring, of Jackson Hill, Ind.," was the reply.

Louie has an awful big lunch of aspirants for the outfield, but, at that, he told Ring to show up in the spring and he could show any Central league catcher he would be given a thorough tryout.

This fellow Ring is one of the fastest semi-professional outfielders in this neck of the woods. He played on the Jackson and performed in a creditable manner. He is a pretty good stickler for a youngster, but it is just fielding his position that he shines especially. He is fast, very fast, both in the field and on the path, he probably having stolen more bases last year than any player in the semi-pro world in Indiana.

Ring likes to play in the center section, although he can cover either extremity. Outside of this excitement, there was nothing doing around the joint where the ball players get their money in the playing season.

Miss Helen Lauer, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lauer, submitted to an operation at the St. Joseph hospital this afternoon for throat trouble.

LEFT HANDER TURNS OUT TO BE HARRY CORNS

Varnell Makes Good His Promise to Secure a Good Man.

The experienced left-hander promised to the Fort Wayne public by Owner Claude H. Varnell turns out to be Harry Corns, drafted from the local club at the close of last season by Detroit. Mr. Varnell has announced his purchase from the Tigers and now the pitching staff of the club for next season numbers an even dozen.

Several weeks ago the Fort Wayne owner stated that he had negotiations on for a pitcher of the port side brand who would be pleasing to the patrons of the game here, but did not divulge the name at the time for fear it might interfere with the deal that was being made. Yesterday the purchase was pending. Yesterday Harry Corns had an attack of typhoid fever near the end of last season and was relieved of duty before the schedule closed. He went to his home in Nebraska and recovered after a long siege but it was known some time ago that Detroit would not use him. There was the possibility, however, that some other American league team might claim him by refusing to waive claim to his services and for this reason negotiations were carried on quietly.

During most of the season Corns was required to do more work than was good for him and this told on his pitching. Then the disease that finally disabled him began to show and he was under a handicap that prevented him from demonstrating his worth.

This purchase is in all probability the most popular so far made by the manager. Harry Corns was a favorite with the ball public last summer. He was always in condition, always willing to work and always gave the club the benefit of his best services. His conduct off and on the ball field was excellent and his return will be welcomed.

His batting was a great feature of his work last season and any time he wants to abandon the box for the outfield he can make the change. In forty-seven games he hit .316 and his work in the field when he was called upon to play was high-class.

It is a safe bet that he will be a member of the regular staff. He stands so well with the management that overtures were made for his return before the ink was dry on the draft and the persistence of Mr. Varnell finally landed him.

Amour went back to Augusta the following season, 1926, and was there when the Detroit Tigers, under the management of Bill Armour, trained on the Augusta team. Smith did not play professional ball that year. Armour hadn't seen Cobb in many performances before he picked him out as a natural ball player and tipped him as a coming star.

Amour went to the owners of the Detroit club and told them he wanted to buy Cobb. The owners could not see it that way. They had a bunch of youngsters on the roster at the time and to them Cobb did not look any better than some of the players they already had picked for the job. But Bill Armour, with an ability to judge young ball players that probably is not excelled, was determined to get Cobb. When he was unable to convince the owners that they should pick up the young Georgian, he went down into his own pockets for the purchase money, paying out several hundred dollars for Cobb.

Amour's tip that Cobb was a natural ball player and bound to be a star came true. During the season of 1926 Cobb did not break into many games, but in 1927 he was in from the start. He set the pace for the season with his work on the bases and finished the season at the top of the list of batters, heading out such clouters as George Stone, Larry Lajole and some of the other older men. Cobb's work went a long way toward landing the first pennant Detroit had seen in twenty years. The next season, 1928, Cobb repeated, again leading the hitters and accomplishing great things on the bases.

And while all this was going on Tommy Smith, who had beaten Cobb, dropped from professional ball, landed a good job and settled down to married life. He is now to play Sunday ball with the Shilohs and be at home.

SCHRECK STARTS IN BACKWARD TRIP BY SALE

Old Catcher Has Been Sold by White Sox to Columbus.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 26.—"Ossie" Schreck, longest substitute catcher of the White Sox, has been sold to the Columbus team of the American association. The deal had been hanging fire for some days. This marks the passing of another veteran player to the minors.

Schreck, as he has been known for years, has been in the game for years. When Catcher Billy Sullivan was injured last fall Comiskey purchased him from Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics to help out. The Athletics were here at the time, and the deal went through in a few minutes. He played in few games with the Sox.

For years Schreck was a star of the Athletics, being a side partner of "Rube" Waddell. When over "Rube" pitched he always wanted "Ossie" to do the backstopping for him. And Schreck always did his famous one-handed stunts with Waddell flinging. When "Rube" went to St. Louis Schreck's heart was broken, and he was never quite the same behind the bat.

Schreck played with several teams before joining the Athletics, being with Cleveland for awhile. But he struck his gait at Philadelphia, developing into quite a batting hero. He was popular in the Quaker town.

CHANCE SAYS IT'S A TOSS-UP.
Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 26.—Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago Cubs, declares the differences between himself and President Murphy are simply concerning the management of the team. Chance said last night that he had not made any agreement to return to Chicago.

In his own words, "It is a toss-up whether I go east or stay in California, where I have bought a fine ranch home." Continuing, Chance said: "I want control of my team on and off the field, and Murphy opposes this. If he does not concede me this privilege, I will not return. If I am given the position of manager and he intends to divide the managerial duties with me, I will not return."

"There has been no correspondence of a business nature between us, although we have exchanged friendly letters. It is up to Mr. Murphy."

Chance has given up his position with a bookmaker at the Santa Anita racetrack and is at his home in Ocean Park.

Esquimaux Boy, First to Take College Course, Will Seek North Pole

Memo Keeshoo, Brought Here by Peary in 1895, Will Begin Studies Under Christian Brothers.

New York, Jan. 26.—"Who is better able to explore the frozen North and possibly discover the North Pole than an Eskimau?" was the logic put forth today by Memo Keeshoo, sole survivor of a band of Esquimaux brought here by Commander Peary in 1895, when interviewed as to his proposal to avow an education in Manhattan college, fitting himself principally in navigation and engineering, and then setting forth on a voyage of discovery far beyond the icebergs and polar bears among which he was born about eighteen years ago.

Memo Keeshoo, who adopted the name of Wallace when William Wallace, director of the American Museum of Natural History, became his guardian after the other members of his family died within a year or so after arriving here, scoffs at the methods employed by the world's famous explorers in attempting to find the North Pole.

"They fit out nice, comfortable ships," explains Memo, "take along a number of useless passengers to eat up their provisions and sail as far north as they can in one summer and passively wait until they are frozen in. Then they wait a winter eating up their provisions until summer comes again, when they make a so-called 'dash,' in which they sometimes cover as much as a mile a day, going as far as they can in half the summer. The other half of the summer is taken in heating it back to their ship before the Arctic winter becomes too severe. Then they return to the United States in a blaze of glory, announce that the pole is to be discovered 'not yet, but soon,' and start out on a long and profitable lecture tour, telling why they failed and how they will surely succeed next time."

Memo Keeshoo would alter all this. He would recruit his exploring party from among his own tribe of Esquimaux, men inured to the hardships of the frozen north, who could live and thrive on whale blubber and other scant delicacies of the north too fertile Arctic circle.

In order to fit himself properly to command such an expedition Memo has a long, hard grind of study before him. He will enter the preparatory department of Manhattan college on February 1, and after four years there will enter the college, where another four years will turn him out a first-class engineer, able to take up navigation and prepare maps and surveys of the country he explores.

ILLINOIS DEADLOCK TO RELIEVE SOUTH DEFIES EFFORTS TO BREAK IT

Futile Ballots Taken in the Joint Session for Senator.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—After five indecisive ballots had been taken in the Illinois senatorial contest, completing the seventeenth in the total, the joint session of the Illinois legislature rose until noon tomorrow, when the balloting will be resumed.

The changes in the vote noted through today's balloting were not regarded as significant.

New Ones Voted For.

When the session ended the conferences and the discussions over the merits of the several candidates began afresh. The names of Free P. Morris, of Watseka, Robert T. Lincoln, of Chicago, and Congressman Charles S. Wharton, of Chicago, were added to the list of those voted for in the joint sessions. Both house and senate adjourned until tomorrow morning, after the joint session rose.

In the thirteenth ballot Senator Hopkins gained seven votes, making his total ninety as against 83 Thursday on the twelfth ballot. Senator Lane and Representatives Holaday, Lane, Lawrence, Liggett, and Ziff voted for Mr. Hopkins.

Upon the fourteenth ballot Senator Hopkins fell off five votes from the ninety given him on the thirteenth ballot. Senators Brown and Schmitt and Representatives Ton, Beck and Hogan changed their votes.

Slow Getting Together.

Members of the legislature were slow in gathering in the state house today for the sessions of the house and senate which preceded the joint sessions in which balloting for a United States senator was resumed.

Conferences and animated discussion occupied the morning hours but added no certainty to the outcome of the balloting. The friends of Senator Hopkins declared that the chances of their candidate had increased over night and the supporters of Congressman Foss took heart in the presence of their favorite.

Former Lieutenant Governor L. Y. Sherman loomed up as a possible candidate on whom the opposing factions could unite and there was talk of other candidates being presented in the balloting. Instead of an absolute requirement that a constitutional majority of 103 members of the general assembly is necessary for the election of a senator, it is generally accepted by the legislators that a majority of those present and voting, provided a majority of each house is present, will be decisive.

Wednesday evening a public meeting will be held in the court house assembly room in the interest of the movement to secure state aid in the erection of an armory building.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO RE- IMBURSE HIM FOR $18,000 ROBBERY.

RELIEF FOR SOLDIERS' WIDOWS.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Widows of deceased soldiers and sailors of the civil war in instances where the marriages occurred since June 27, 1890, may be pensioned under the provisions of a bill favorably reported to the senate today from the committee on pensions. Under existing law widows of soldiers and sailors of the civil war are not pensionable unless their marriages took place prior to the date mentioned.

It is estimated by the pension bureau that there are about 15,000 or 20,000 women who would be benefited by the passage of this law.

ARMS FOR SPANISH WAR VETS.

Washington, Jan. 26.—An effort is being made to procure conclusive action by congress on Senator Dick's bill to permit the secretary of war to issue to camps of united Spanish veterans such discarded arms and ammunition as may be available for that purpose. A bill providing for this action has been passed by the senate and its friends expect it will be favorably considered by the house.

In order to secure the use of these arms at least ten members of a camp of veterans must signify their intention to use them in drilling and target practice.

ASK CANAL APPROPRIATION.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The isthmian canal commission is asking congress for the appropriation of $1,200,000 for the continuation of its sanitation work in Panama and Colon. Under the treaty between the United States and Panama, grading and paving of streets, building of sewers and the extension of water mains must be done by the Americans and already $2,400,000 has been expended in this direction.

Unimproved districts of the two cities have become so crowded that it is feared some epidemic may overtake the people.

James McMahon Thought to Have Lost Life in Crib Disaster.

James McMahon, who was for many years a resident of Fort Wayne, is believed to have been among those who perished in the explosion and fire at the Chicago crib disaster in Lake Michigan. He was known to have been employed on the work, and no word has been received from him since the accident.

Mrs. McMahon, who was recovering from the effects of a surgical operation, was preparing to rejoin her husband, and she is now prostrated at the home of a daughter at 2414 Euclid avenue. B. Tomlinson, a son-in-law, has gone to Chicago to see if he can locate the body. John McMahon, employed at the White Fruit House, is a brother, and Mrs. Mary Merrill, of Boone street, is a sister.

SCOTCH FOLK CELEBRATE.

Fine Program Marks Anniversary of Birth of Poet Burns.

In a program that was both unique and enjoyable the members of the Caledonian society on Monday evening celebrated the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns, the Scottish poet. William Lawson presided and the address of the evening was given by Rev. Dr. D. W. Moffat, who told of his recent tour of Scotland and of the scenes about the old home of the famous poet.

Others who contributed to the program were Miss Nellie Lawson, Rev. Frank M. Fox, Clinton R. Willson, Miss Amelia Hofer and Adolph Hofer.

At the close of the program the ladies served lunch in which Scottish dainties formed a feature and a dance program followed.

MINERS DEMAND THE

REPORTS OF THEIR

COMMITTEES

Election Methods of Lewis

and Walker Factions

Condemned.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—Impatient at the delay in getting down to business, the convention of the United Mine Workers of America this morning passed a resolution calling upon the different committees to submit their reports not later than tomorrow morning and then adjourned until that time.

The committees apparently have been proceeding very deliberately and carefully. Especially the committee on officers' reports feels that much depends upon its action, and the resulting open frictional controversy will derive its color from the tone of the committee's report.

A resolution was adopted this morning to send to Senator Dick, of Ohio, chairman of the committee on mines and mining of the United States senate, a telegram stating that fourteen hundred delegates in this convention, representing six hundred thousand miners and their families, urged favorable and immediate action on the bill for a bureau of mines and mining. The telegram was sent at once. The bill now is in Senator Dick's committee.

Both Factions in Bad.

The large number of denunciatory resolutions that have been prepared, it is said, by local unions and delegates to come before the convention, indicate that the rank and file of the miners' organization is strongly opposed to the campaign methods adopted by both the Lewis and Walker factions in the recent election.

At least a dozen resolutions denouncing such methods and calling for legislation that will forever put an end to them have been prepared. It is understood, and placed in the hands of the resolutions committee. Several demand the appointment of a special committee by this convention to investigate fully the charges made by each side during the election and they even declare for the suspension or expulsion of any one found guilty of making unjust charges. All of these resolutions carry the impression that at least the rank and file of the organization fears that such tactics will disrupt the organization.

A large number of resolutions have also been prepared asking for changes in the international executive board and the creation, appointment and control of organizers.

Plan of Control Unsatisfactory.

There seems to be considerable dissatisfaction over the present plan of organization and control. The most radical of these resolutions and the one that will attract the most attention is that prepared by Secretary-Treasurer W. D. Ryan, which proposes that the present system of an elective international executive board be wiped out and that substituted for it the presidents of the districts and the international officers shall constitute the international board.

The Italian miners have shown great development and are making many demands, by reason, for the publication of a weekly addition of the mine workers' journal in their language.

A resolution has been presented asking that the international officers be elected for a period of two years instead of one.

Another resolution would paste the union label on all union mined coal that all who burn it may know.

Two resolutions calling for government ownership of mines and one declaring for co-operative operation of mines are in the hands of the resolutions committee.

Shippy declares that he is worth the money, and adds that "New York now pays her commissioner that much." He's wrong there. Commissioner Bingham is still drawing only $7,500 a year—largely because of "Little Tim" Sullivan's opposition to an increase.—New York Tribune.

Among the prominent members of the family who were graduated from Harvard, John Lowell, of the class of sachusetts district court. He had been a member of the convention of 1780, which framed the constitution of the Boston, Mass., Jan. 26.—When one seeks Professor A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard, these days he may be found in any one of three places, and this searching in itself is informing regarding the personality of Harvard's next president. If the seeker finds him at his home, his residence, at No. 171 Marlboro street, reveals him a cultured member of Boston's most exclusive Back Bay social circles. If one finds him at his office, that office, in the Exchange building, eight floors above the roar and din of the Stock Exchange, discloses that he is a capitalist, for the door is labelled, "August Lowell Estate, Massachusetts Cotton Mills, Merrimack Mills, Massachusetts mills in Georgia." Of if the searcher for Harvard's next president goes to the university he will find him at the new lecture hall, where he is the professor of the science of government, delivering to large numbers of young men the results of his study into the forms of European governments—a study which has given him recognition as a scholar of the first rank.

Many persons sought him as soon as the Harvard corporation had elected him. They found him affable and yet dignified, of engaging personality but without. Everybody wanted to chat about his place, about the future of the university. He didn't care to talk about those things, and so he didn't.

Reticent About New Honor.
It was at his office that a reporter found him. He could not talk about the Harvard presidency because he had not yet been elected. By the technicality of Harvard's election of a president he had only been nominated; the board of overseers will vote upon the nomination next Wednesday. Even if he had been elected he could not speak of the Harvard presidency; the new president will not assume office until next May. It would be entirely improper to talk of such matters.

To his students at the new lecture hall, which is the largest at Harvard, and which was an anonymous benefaction, he was more communicative. There is an impression among Harvard students, by the way, that Professor Lowell is the donor of the new lecture hall. To these students Professor Lowell stated his belief that the presidency of Harvard is "the most important office in the United States."

What he plans to do with such an opportunity, however, he does not propose to say at this time. "I have made no plans," he said, "and I am not going to make any until those plans can be put into action."

Whatever these plans may be, Harvard men may be assured that they will not cause a radical departure from the traditions of America's oldest educational institution. To say that the new president is a Lowell is equivalent to saying that he is thoroughly a Harvard man. For six generations the Lowells have been Harvard men, and for a century and a half the Lowells in Massachusetts have been educators, professors and men of letters, merchants and manufacturers, soldiers, lawyers and judges. All of them not only studied at Harvard, but five of them have been members of the board of fellows. Professor Lowell in his maternal ancestry belongs to the Lawrence family, also prominent in affairs of Massachusetts. The two great textile cities of Lawrence and Lowell were named in honor of his forebears.

Not only is his family extraordinary in achievements, but it is almost entirely contemporary with the college. Harvard had been founded only three years when the first ancestor of the president-elect arrived at Newbury. This was Percival Lowell, who came from Bristol, England, in 1639.

FRANK W. MORSE TO LEAVE GRAND TRUNK

Former Fort Wayne Man Surprises Friends by Resigning.

A telegram from Montreal announces the resignation of Frank W. Morse as first vice president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, becoming effective February 1. The telegram said that no reason for the resignation was given, and added that Mr. Morse had left Montreal for a tour of the Mediterranean. This announcement will be a great surprise to a number of people in Fort Wayne who are acquainted with Mr. Morse. He resided a number of years in this city, when he was master mechanic of the Wabash's eastern division. In 1896 Mr. Morse was offered the position of superintendent of motive power of the Grand Trunk by General Manager C. M. Hays and he accepted. His rise on the Grand Trunk was rapid. Soon after going to that company he was elected third vice president and then in rapid succession was advanced until he reached the position he is about to retire from. Mr. Morse was succeeded here by C. H. Doeblie, of the Big Four, who in turn was succeeded by C. S. McKee in 1898.

MERGER OF GOULD LINES.

Plans for Future of Eastern Interests Completed.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 26.—A consolidation of all the distressed roads of the Goulds in the east is something which has just now been fully worked out here. The Western Maryland railroad, which is in a receiver's hands, is to be taken out within the next two weeks, according to information leaking out here last evening, and then as rapidly as the Western Maryland, Erie and the West Side belt lines can be got from the receivers' hands they will all be merged in one large system, extending from Lake Erie to Chesapeake, via the richest part of Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The roads are to be consolidated, with headquarters at Pittsburg, in the fine $1,000,000 depot, which has been abandoned. It is rumored that B. A. Worthington, formerly vice president of the Wabash lines east of Toledo, now receiver for the Wheeling and Lake Erie, stationed at Cleveland, will be president of the combined roads. However B. F. Bush, formerly president of the Western Maryland, now its receiver, may be named for the place.

Both Bush and Worthington are members of a final inspection party which spent the latter part of last week in the Pittsburg district, and which left last night for an inspection of the Wabash Pittsburg terminal.

Sleeplessness

Mental and Physical Failures are the Direct Result of Sleepless Nights. A Cure Without Harmful Drugs is Offered.

Sleeplessness cannot be cured by habit forming drugs. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer contains neither Alcohol, Chloral, Morphine or other harmful or habit forming drugs, therefore may be taken without fear of harm.

It does not FORCE sleep as narcotics do. It nourishes the system by purifying the worn out matter that makes NERVOUS sleep. Whether the trouble is extreme wakefulness, fitful, unrefreshing slumber or any other form of nerve weakness, Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer will cure it effectively and permanently. It builds up a strong nervous system by supplying the elements that have been worn out and exhausted by years of mental toil, worry and grief, burned up by excesses, bad habits and dissipation.

In some cases a single bottle effects a cure. Others require more persistent treatment—depending on the seriousness of the case and the patient's susceptibility to treatment, but in either case a cure is certain.

I broke down under excessive nervous strain so that I was prostrated. I could not sleep, and did not sleep for seven nights at one time, was nearly crazy. Thought I would surely die, so I did my friends. They were very anxious about my condition. I tried all kinds of treatment to no purpose. Finally I tried Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, which gave me the first wink of sleep I have had for seven nights and made me feel like a new man. I wish every one to know how much benefit can be derived from Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer.

Kreig, who has been agent of the company at West Lebanon for the past few years. Mr. Kreig will be succeeded by A. M. The annual ball of Friendship lodge, No. 70, International Association of Machinists, at Tanner's hall last night was enjoyed by a large party and was pronounced one of the best dances yet given by the lodge, which is saying a good deal, for their entertainments are among the best in the city. The Elks minstrels and other entertainments probably had some bearing on the attendance at the dance, but there were plenty on hand to fill the floor at each number.

MINSTRELS FOR ATHLETIC FUND. Big Burnt Cork Show for Indiana University. Blomington, Ind., Jan. 26.—Preparations are being made to hold a monster minstrel show for the benefit of the Indiana university athletic fund. The athletic fund is not as healthy as might be and the coming show will be made as big as possible.

A committee of the leading students has been selected to make preliminary arrangements and will meet this week to get to work. It is possible that a musical comedy, with boys forming the chorus and playing all the feminine parts, will be played instead of the minstrel, but nothing definite has been done in favor of this idea.

MIND HAS BEEN A BLANK. Young Business Man of Thornton, Ind., is Returned to His Home. Thornton, Ind., Jan. 26.—Bert Aldridge, the young business man of this place, who disappeared from here last resume his duties with the United States Steel company. Mrs. Hilberry and her baby will remain here two or three weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Szink.

Homer King, an engineer on the eastern division of the Nickel Plate, well known to all the men running in and out of Bellevue, died at his home in Conneaut yesterday morning, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. King had been employed on the Nickel Plate fourteen years.

Machinist George Porser, of the Wabash, who has been suffering from blood poisoning for a week, is improving and was able to sit up yesterday for the first time since the malady developed serious form. He expects to make rapid progress towards recovery.

L. E. Rehling, a blacksmith, has recovered from his recent illness and resumed his place at the forge in the Pennsylvania shops. Hammersmith Edgar Szink and his gang also resumed work this morning. They had been off duty several days, during which their hammer and furnace were undergoing repairs.

Two more engines were yesterday received from the Wheeling and Lake Erie road by the Wabash, making six that have been returned and leaving twenty-eight to come. These engines were leased to the Wheeling and Lake Erie road about two years ago, when the Wabash had full control of that property.

F. A. Schlosser, agent of the Wabash at Defiance, O., has tendered his resignation to become effective the first of the month. He is to be succeeded by J. L. Kreig, who has been agent of the company at West Lebanon for the past few years. Mr. Kreig will be succeeded by A. M. Brown, who has been employed in the telegraphic department of the road for a number of years, lately at Columbia City.

Houseboat to Save Her Boys From the Great White Plague

THE HOUSE BOAT VALRAY

MRS. ADDISON J. ROTHERMEL.

New York, Jan. 26.—Warned by physicians that her two sons were in danger of developing tuberculosis, from which disease their father died last spring, Mrs. A. J. Rothermel, formerly of No. 208 West Eighty-third street, has taken measures to give her children plenty of outdoor life. The fond mother recently purchased a houseboat and with her two boys is passing the winter in the craft anchored in the Hudson river, at the foot of Dyckman street, in upper New York city. The craft, a staunch little affair, is twelve feet wide and about thrice that length. Since the two boys have taken up their quarters on the boat they have shown decided improvement, both gaining weight and showing a good, healthy complexion. The boat is not far from a subway station and the lads can go to their work daily without much inconvenience. Soon after establishing the floating home, Mrs. Rothermel worked hard to put it in snug shape, bunkers for holding coal were built, a large reservoir for holding water was installed and spacious comfortable berths were provided for herself and the boys.

THE WEATHER.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—For Indiana, Illinois and Lower Michigan—Fair tonight and Wednesday; slight temperature changes.

CITY BREVITIES.

Attorney E. V. Emrick is in Argos, Marshall county, today, where he attended the funeral of Hon. William Sarger, member of the lower house of the general assembly from that county.

The chances for the recovery of Miss Margaret Coolican, of 608 Poplar street, who submitted to a serious surgical operation at the St. Joseph hospital last Saturday, are said to be very favorable.

Mrs. Dallas Wohlford was removed from the Lutheran hospital yesterday to her home at 422 Baker street, after having made a satisfactory recovery from an operation for an abscess performed a week ago.

A postal card from G. Max Hofmann, who, with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Tresselt, has just landed on the Azores, was received here yesterday by Dan Clemens. The postal states that the entire party is in good health and enjoying the trip immensely.

A second operation to remove the facial blemishes was performed upon Miss Edna Laemmermann at the St. Joseph hospital yesterday, and it is believed is successful. Miss Laemmermann is the girl that had her scalp torn off in the machinery at the Troy laundry about a year ago.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians as the damage they do is too great for the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Fort Wayne women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Fort Wayne woman's words:

Mrs. Christina Shoemaker, 134 Baker street, Fort Wayne, Ind., says: "During the past year I suffered greatly from kidney trouble and severe pains in my back. I was very dizzy at times and my entire system seemed to be affected. I read of other persons being helped by Doan's Kidney Pills and I was thus led to try them. I procured a box at Meyer Bros. Co.'s drug store and must say that I have been greatly benefited through their use. I can endorse Doan's Kidney Pills as the best kidney remedy I have ever taken."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

ALLEN COUNTY THE TARDY ONE

Almost All Fort Wayne Districts Organized by Temperance Men.

"Every one of the counties in the Fort Wayne district of the State Anti-Saloon league except this, Allen county, either has had a county option election or is being organized for one. There are fourteen counties in the district and one of them, Wabash, has gone dry, while there will be an election this week in one and the following week there will be another. And I believe that it will require only a few more saloon incidents of the kind we had last week to make this county ripe for temperance organization."

These were the words this morning of Rev. N. C. Shirey, who is at the head of the local district. He further says that he is very hopeful that every one of his counties except Allen will go dry within a short time and says that he has received a number of assurances from unexpected sources within the past week of support should the question ever come up here.

TRACED THIEVES HERE.

Chickens Stolen in Whitley County Were Sold in Fort Wayne.

(Columbia City Commercial Mail.)

It seems that Fred Shaw, of Union township, was not the only person who had chickens stolen last Tuesday night. Later reports show that Eugene Jullierette, Keyes Harris and Steve Shaw each had from fifteen to twenty chickens stolen from their hen roosts. The thieves were traced to Fort Wayne where they sold their stolen property. It is thought the parties are known and arrests may follow. On that night Fred and Steve Shaw and Mr. Harris were in this city attending a banquet of the K. of P. lodge and they did not miss their chickens until the next morning.

Hollow Ware should be purchased only at a reliable store. If the quality of the iron is not standard grade, there are defects in the castings. Defects mean burnt spots in the iron, and burnt spots mean spoiled dinners. Our hollow ware may cost more than a poor grade, but it more than earns its cost in the length of service and satisfaction.
